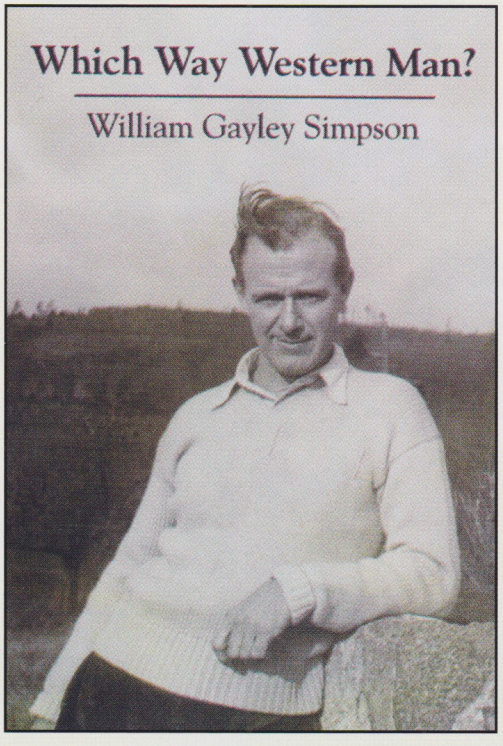
LESSONS FROM THE PAST:
How Race Defeated Egypt

SURVIVAL MANUAL FOR THE WHITE RACE

"We have now reached the point in our discussion where I must gather together what, from the point of view of race, our people must do if they are ever to know a future worthy of their past, or even escape subjugation and enslavement. In a very real sense this whole book is a statement of the vast change in values, goals, direction, and social and political institutions which our people must undergo, and of the regimen for their whole life which they must adopt and maintain, if they are to recover their ancient spirit, and that robustness of mind and body which once caused them to stand out among the children of men and to contribute largely to the enrichment of all human life. "



WHICH WAY WESTERN MAN?

Throughout his long lifetime, William Gayley Simpson was a widely traveled and careful observer of Western civilization and its relations with the non-White peoples of the world, especially the Negro and the Jew. An exceptionally deep thinker, he traced the sickness that has overtaken the White man's world in the 20th century to its roots in Jewish world conspiracy and its coordinated aggressive moves against us.

Simpson reveals the deception inherent in our money system, which isn't based on real wealth at all, but on debt and fantasy, and it cannot do other than cause trouble for the people condemned to use it as their medium of exchange. The author also shows why Feminism is not the liberation of woman, but the unsexing of woman. Simpson reveals the fundamental incompatibility between Capitalism, which he calls "The Machine," and the human psyche.

He goes into great detail about the physiological basis of Negro intellectual inferiority, quoting copiously from sources that once were readily available to the layman, but were censored from the popular media and removed to arcane medical journals after World War 2. And, of course, he exposes the nefarious Jew for the deadly parasite he is.

Every racially conscious White person will want this book in his collection, as it is very possibly the best book of racial philosophy originally written in the English language. This is the only edition of Which Way Western Man that incorporates the author's final revisions.

Note from the Editor

Stay the Course

Many readers of this magazine will not need to be told of the recent events within White Nationalist politics in America. Suffice to say, it is important that no matter what happens, it remains the sacred duty of all who hold our race dear, to stay the course, hold true to our beliefs and keep focussing our energies upon ensuring our peoples' survival - and not waste our energy in any sort of personal difference.

It is in this spirit that National Vanguard magazine appears once more, with a publishing schedule as originally planned of once every two months.

Your help is vital in creating an alternative media form with which to challenge the anti-White media blackout: subscribe to National Vanguard magazine today! Subscription details can be found on page 31.

The symbol which appears in the NATIONAL VANGUARD logotype is the Life Rune. It comes from an ancient alphabet, or futhark, used in northern Europe for many centuries before the general adoption of the Roman alphabet. The Life Rune signifies life, creation, birth, rebirth, and renewal. It expresses in a single symbol the raison d'etre of NATIONAL VANGUARD and of the movement of Aryan renewal.

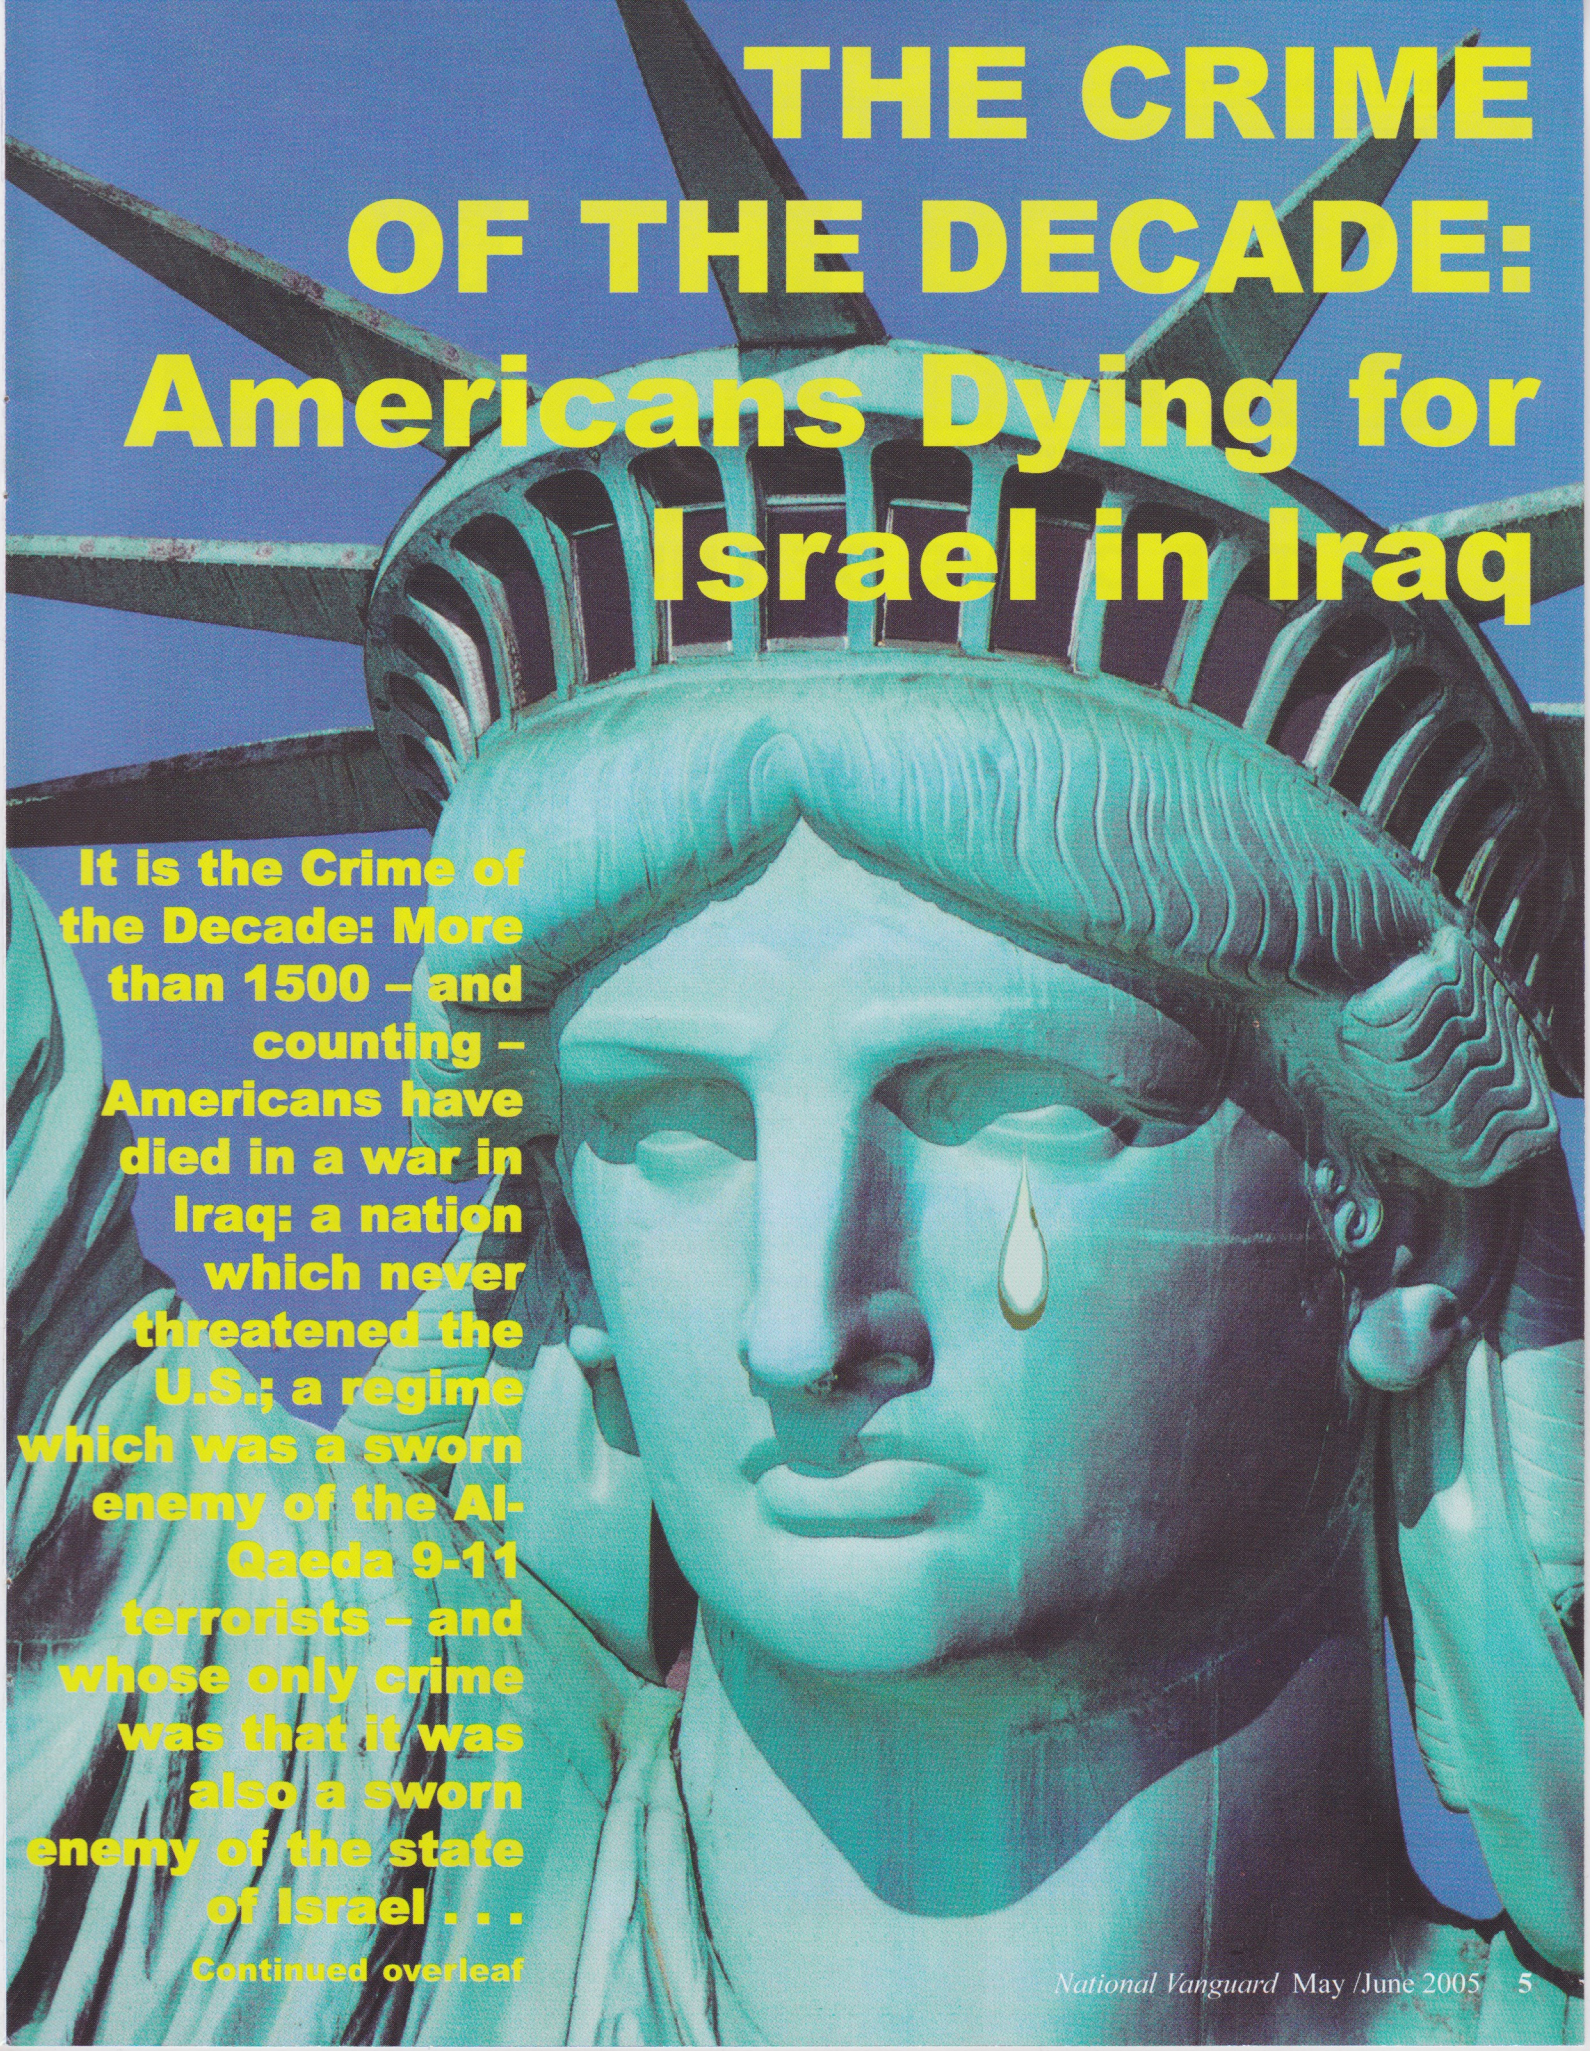
AN IRAQI INSURGENT VIDEO SHOWS THE DEADLY NATURE OF THE WAR IN IRAQ. A HUMVEE FULL OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS PASSES A PARKED CAR BOMB. THE INSURGENTS WAIT FOR THE HUMVEE TO DRAW CLOSE AND THEN DETONATE THE BOMB BY REMOTE CONTROL. THE END RESULT: ANOTHER DEAD AMERICAN, KILLED IN A WAR TO PROTECT ISRAEL'S INTERESTS.



THE CRIME OF THE DECADE: Americans Dying for Israel in Iraq

It is the Crime of the Decade: More than 1500 – and counting – Americans have died in a war in Iraq: a nation which never threatened the U.S.; a regime which was a sworn enemy of the Al-Qaeda 9-11 terrorists – and whose only crime was that it was also a sworn enemy of the state of Israel . . .

Continued overleaf

THE CRIME OF THE DECADE: Americans Dying for Israel in Iraq

Left wing critics of George W Bush have claimed that he had his eyes on Iraq even before 9-11.

While his father's inability to finally defeat Saddam Hussein may well have had something to do with it, the truth is that the US invasion of Iraq was in fact planned in detail many years prior to Bush becoming president – by right wing Zionist Jews who ensured that they became part of the new administration.

Key role of the IASPS

The Jews Richard Perle and Douglas Feith in particular, mapped out the destruction of Iraq in a policy paper prepared in Israel by the Jerusalem based think thank, "The Institute for Advanced Strategic & Political Studies" (IASPS).

This body was founded by ardent Zionist, Professor Robert J. Loewenberg, in 1984 after he emigrated to Israel from the U.S.

In 1996, the IASPS prepared a policy document for the then Israeli prime minister, Benjamin Netanyahu. Called "A Clean Break: A New Strategy for Securing the Realm," this paper, delivered to a IASPS conference held in July of that year, is still available on the IASPS website at http://www.israeleconomy.org/about.htm.

The paper's authors? No surprise to learn that it says: "The main substantive ideas in this paper emerged from a discussion in which prominent opinion makers, including Richard Perle and Douglas Feith, (amongst others), participated."

The reader will note that this paper was prepared seven years before George W. Bush's invasion of Iraq. In essence is says that the Israeli-Palestinian peace process was leading to a forfeiture of Israel's "strategic initiative" and that the "loss of national critical mass was illustrated best by Israel's efforts to draw in the United States to sell unpopular policies domestically, to agree to negotiate sovereignty over its capital, and to respond with resignation to a spate of terror so intense and tragic that it deterred Israelis from engaging in normal daily functions, such as commuting to work in buses."

Perle and Feith continued: "Israel has the opportunity to make a clean break; it can forge a peace process and strategy based on an entirely new intellectual foundation, one that restores strategic initiative and provides the nation the room to engage every possible energy on rebuilding Zionism."

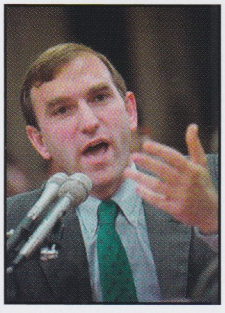
Securing Israel's Borders

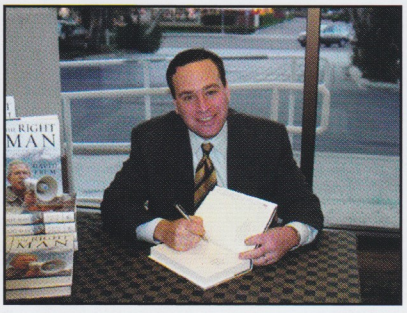
They then get to the nitty gritty, saying in these exact words:

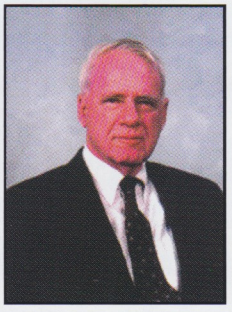
"To secure the nation's streets and borders in the immediate future, Israel can:

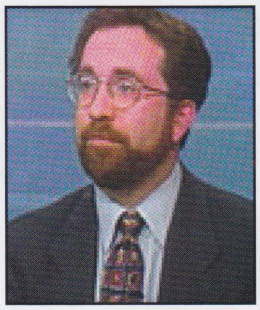
 Work closely with Turkey and Jordan to contain, destabilize, and roll-back*

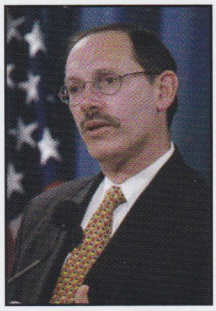
Jews in the first Bush administration who drove the war in Iraq: from left to right: Elliott Abrams, National Security Council Advisor; David Frum, White House speechwriter; Joshua Bolten, Bush's Chief Policy Director; James Schlesinger, another Pentagon advisor who also sits on the Pentagon's Defense Policy Board.

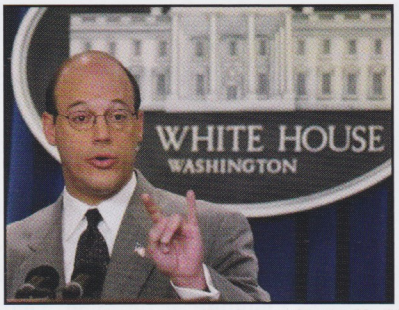


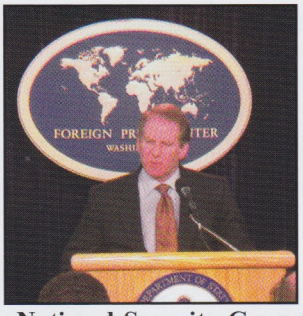












Jews in the first Bush administration who drove the war in Iraq: Robert Satloff, U.S. National Security Council Advisor; Rabbi Dov Zekheim, Under Secretary of Defense and Comptroller; Israeli citizen Ari Fleischer, who served as the official White House spokesman for the Bush administration; Richard Haass, Director of Policy Planning at the State Department and Director of National Security Programs.

some of its most dangerous threats.

 Forge a new basis for relations with the United States - tressing self-reliance, maturity, strategic cooperation on areas of mutual concern, and furthering values inherent to the West.*

Israel can shape its strategic environment, in cooperation with Turkey and Jordan, by weakening, containing, and even rolling back Syria.*

This effort can focus on removing Saddam Hussein from power in Iraq — an important Israeli strategic objective in its own right — as a means of foiling Syria's regional ambitions.

Syria recently signaled that it and Iran might prefer a weak, but barely surviving Saddam, if only to undermine and humiliate Jordan in its efforts to remove Saddam.

Since Iraq's future could affect the strategic balance in the Middle East profoundly, it would be understandable that Israel has an interest in supporting the Hashemites in their efforts to redefine Iraq . . .

Were the Hashemites to control Iraq, they could use their influence over Najf to help Israel wean the south Lebanese Shia away from Hizballah, Iran, and Syria."

Same Jews Drove War in Bush Administration

IASPS study group leader, Richard Perle, attended as a delegate from the American Enterprise Institute; while Douglas Feith was there as representative of Feith and Zell Associates. Both of these fanatical dual loyalty Jews then went on to form a significant part of George W Bush's own internal "axis of evil" of Jewish Neo-Conservatives driving the Iraq war effort . . .

With the broad outline mapped out – namely destroy the regime of Saddam Hussein because of this step's ability to destabilize the Arab anti-Israel coalition in the Middle East – the Jews who control the U.S. Government set about putting their plan into operation: all that was needed was a compliant Christian goy front man president whose IQ was so low that he could easily be manipulated and not even know; and then an excuse to drive the American Gentile masses into righteous anger to support a war against Iraq. The Jewish desert God answered his people's prayer: George W Bush and 9-11 presented themselves, in that order.

Jewish War Machine Ready

Amazingly enough, when 9-11 happened, the main Jewish instigators were all in place in the George W. Bush administration:

Richard Perle emerged as Chairman of George' Bush's Defense Policy Board Advisory Committee;

Douglas Feith emerged as Under Secretary of Defense and the Pentagon's Policy Advisor; and the list of Jews pushing for war with Iraq suddenly grew larger and larger:

Paul Wolfowitz, was Deputy Defense Secretary and campaign advisor;

Robert Satloff, was U.S. National Security Council Advisor;

Rabbi Dov Zekheim was Under Secretary of Defense and Comptroller;

David Frum, Bush's official White House speechwriter;

Ken Melman, White House Political Director;

Brad Blakeman, White House Director of Scheduling; and, possibly most importantly of all,

George Tenet, head of the CIA. It was the Jew Tenet who manufactured all the welter of lies, half truths and deceptions about Saddam Hussein and Iraq.

Using the attack of 9-11 (carried out by Muslim extremists in direct response to America's support for Israel against the Arab states) as an excuse, the Jews running the Bush administration saw their chance: use the media and a barrage of lies to whip up the American public to support a war on Iraq.

Iraq an Enemy of Al-Qaeda

Iraq of course had nothing to do with 9-11. In fact, Saddam Hussein was one of Al-Qaeda's enemies. Saddam's Iraq was, by Muslim standards, secular, and Hussein had personally been declared an "infidel" who needed to be killed by none other than Osama Bin Laden himself, in an audio tape which was released to the media.

This fact did not get in the way of the Masters of the Lie: Based on CIA Jew Tenet supplied information, Iraq was accused not only of harboring and training Al-Qaeda operatives, but of storing and building the dreaded "Weapons of Mass Destruction" which were going to be used against America in particular.

Hitler Warned of the Jews' Big Lie Technique

Now that even the Bush White House has been forced to concede that there were no WMDs, it is too easy to forget the enormity of the lies which were told. A brief review of them is timely, and serves as a reminder of Adolf Hitler's warning that the when the Jews lie, they lie so outrageously and big, that the sheer effrontery of the lie makes people believe it.

The core of the Jews' lies were contained in the CIA report entitled "Iraq's Weapons of Mass Destruction Programs," (Central Intelligence Agency, October 2002). According to the Jew Tenet, Iraq was:

* Renewing the "production of chemical warfare agents, probably including mustard, sarin, cyclosarin, and VX. All key aspects—R&D, production, and weaponization—of Iraq's offensive BW program are active and most elements are larger and more advanced than they were before the Gulf war.

* "Iraq has not accounted for 15,000 artillery rockets that in the past were its preferred means for delivering nerve agents, nor has it accounted for about 550 artillery shells filled with mustard agent."

* "Iraq probably has stocked at least 100 metric tons (MT) and possibly as much as 500 MT of CW agents."

All this, according to the Jew Tenet's CIA file.

Further Outrageous Lies

In addition, the hapless Hussein was accused at the United Nations by octoroon Colin Powell, also using the Jew Tenet's falsified information, of having at least "seven mobile biological weapons labs mounted on road trailers and railroad cars. These facilities can produce, in one month, enough of a dry biological agent such as anthrax or botulinum toxin to kill thousands," said Powell. The reality is that all of these claims were lies, as shown after the war.

A totally fabricated International Nuclear Agency report was quoted by George W Bush as saying that Iraq was "six months" from developing a nuclear bomb. "I don't know what more evidence we need," Bush added. The International Atomic Energy Agency however reported that this report "never existed."

Still drawing on the Jew Tenet's lies, Bush asserted further that Iraq possessed "ballistic missiles with a likely range of hundreds of miles –far enough to strike Saudi Arabia, Israel, Turkey and other nations in a region where more than 135,000 American civilians and service members live and work." The reality was that the search for WMDs turned up a few Al Samoud-2 missiles which can travel less than 200 miles—not far enough to hit the targets Bush named.

US spy satellite pictures were used by Powell at the United Nations to "show" Iraqi nuclear bunkers, research sites and mobile laboratories. Nothing of the sort was ever found, and the only trumpeted "mobile lab" truck turned out to be a British supplied weather balloon unit.

British Jews Play a Role

In his now infamous February 2003 speech before the UN, Powell also quoted from the British Government's "Dossier" on Iraq.

This dossier however was found to have been plagiarized, typos and all, from an online publication by a California graduate student which referred exclusively to WMDs possessed by Iraq prior to the 1991 Gulf War – weapons which, had, ironically, been provided to Iraq partly through the offices of the US Government, which supported Iraq against Iran in the 1980s war between those two countries. Only three of the 103 footnotes in the student's essay cited sources were from this century.

It is of course no surprise to learn that British Jews were behind this patchwork of lies as well: A veteran left wing member of Britain's House of Commons, Tam Dalyell, declared in May 2003 that Tony Blair had surrounded himself with a "cabal of Jewish advisers" who, he said, "are skewing British foreign policy on the Middle East in favor of the Israeli Government."

Dalyell went on to say that Blair was "unduly influenced" by figures including Lord Levy, Labour's chief fund-raiser and Blair's unofficial envoy to the Middle East, cabinet member Peter Mandelson and Foreign Secretary Jack Straw, who has, Dalyell revealed, Jewish antecedents.

For good measure, the long time hard leftist Dalyell added that Jews had taken control of America's foreign policy, and had succeeded in pushing the US into war.

"A Jewish cabal have taken over the government in the United States and formed an unholy alliance with fundamentalist Christians. There is far too much Jewish influence in the United States," he said. The usual rumpus and accusations of "anti-Semitism" were thrown at Dalyell, but he refused to retract or apologize for telling the truth.

Nuclear Lies

Saddam was also accused of attempting to acquire anodized aluminum tubes to develop nuclear weapons. The U.N. inspectors – hardly unbiased themselves – warned that this was nonsense, a claim since proven correct.

The Jew Tenet then supplied Bush with documents which "proved" Saddam tried to acquire 500 tons of uranium from Niger. Bush's White House speech writer, the Jew David Frum, duly wrote this claim into Bush's State of the Nation address, despite these documents already have been exposed in public as forgeries by the International Atomic Energy Agency.

This was the most brazen example of the astonishing chutzpah of the Jewish liars in Bush's administration, and its author, the Jew Tenet, was eventually gracefully retired after the blatancy of this lie became dangerously close to exposing the Jewish web.

The Bin Laden Link Lie

Saddam was accused of harboring, training and having links with Osama Bin Laden, and of being directly involved in the events of 9-11. Once again using the Jew Tenet's lies, Powell told the United Nations in February 2003 about "(The) sinister nexus between Iraq and the al-Qaida terrorist network, a nexus that combines classic terrorist organizations and modern methods of murder. Iraq today harbors a deadly terrorist network headed by Abu Musab al-Zarqawi, an associate and collaborator of Usama bin Laden and his al-Qaeda lieutenants."

The reality, once again, is that the only Al-Qaeda network in Iraq at that time was based in the far north of that country in Kurdistan, in the no-fly zone imposed by the United States and over which Hussein's government had no control. The irony of this vicious lie is even more apparent when it is considered that since the fall of Saddam, Al-Qaeda has indeed managed to establish cells in Iraq, and are a major factor in American deaths in that country.

The Halajba Lie

Finally, Saddam was accused of using chemical weapons against Kurdish civilians in March 1988 which killed up to 5000 people. This was, the Jewish liars told the world, evidence that Saddam was an evil Hitler-like dictator who had to be destroyed. However, the CIA's own senior political analyst during that war, Stephen C. Pelletiere, had long since reported to his boss that the Iranians, and not the Iraqis, were responsible for the massacre as the chemicals used at the scene were Iranian. Pelletiere's report was even published in the New York Times on 31 January 2003. This annoying fact did not prevent the Jew Tenet from spreading the lie that Iraq had been responsible.

Jewish Supremacist Role Exposed

The Jewish influence in getting America to go to war is widely known within the corridors of power in Washington DC. US Senator Ernest Hollings said in May 2004 that the US invaded Iraq "to secure Israel," and "everybody knows it." Hollings also pointed out the unwillingness of his Congressional colleagues to acknowledge the Jewish role in the war, saying that "nobody is willing to stand up and say what is going on." Due to "the pressures we get politically," he said, members of Congress uncritically support Israel and its policies. (Congressional Record — Senate, May 20, 2004, pages S5921-S5925.)

In August 2002, retired four-star US Army General and former NATO Supreme Allied Commander Wesley Clark, also revealed the truth in an interview in the Guardian newspaper in London: "Those who favor this attack [by the US against Iraq] now will tell you candidly, and privately, that it is probably true that Saddam Hussein is no threat to the United States. But they are afraid at some point he might decide if he had a nuclear weapon to use it against Israel."

Another US Congressman, Jim Moran, did break ranks with his slavishly pro-Israel colleagues, and publicly acknowledged that Israel was behind the Iraq war. "If it were not for the strong support of the Jewish community for this war with Iraq, we would not be doing this," was Congressman Moran's comment on the matter. He was of course labeled an "anti-Semite" and forced to apologize for this outrage of daring to tell the truth in public.

Jewish Press Admits Truth in Israel, But Hide it from the Goy

The Jews have no need for subterfuge amongst themselves: they are quite open about the true reasons for the war. A Jewish paper in Israel, Israel National

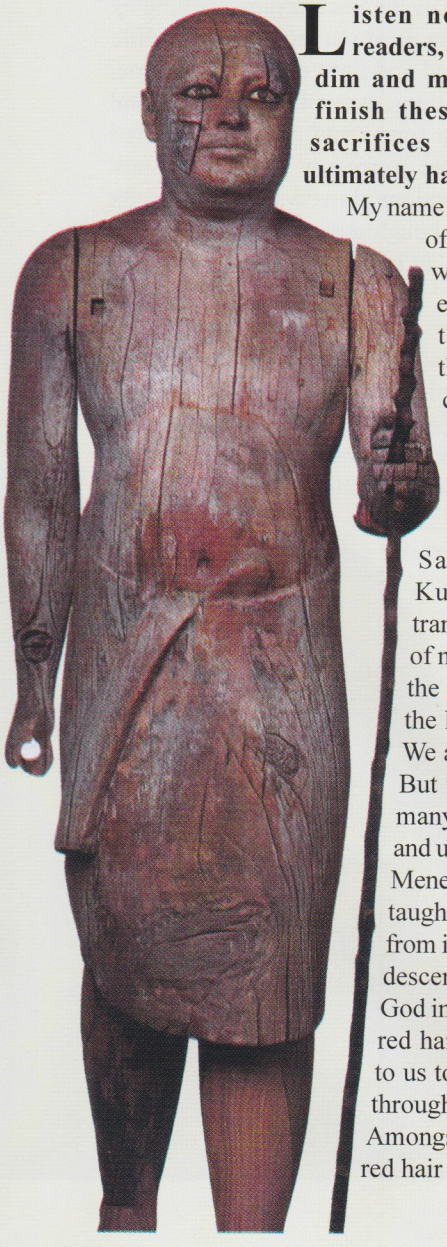
Lessons from the Past: How Race Defeated Egypt



Listen now carefully to me, my readers, even though my eyes grow dim and my hand weak, yet I must finish these words so that all our sacrifices and work may yet not ultimately have been in vain.

My name is Sakkarah, and I am a scribe of the great pharaohs; a scribe who, by chance, came upon the elixir of longevity, and was thus fortunate at first I thought, but now I realize cursed, to have lived long enough to see our glorious Egypt razed to ruins.

For my beautiful Egypt, the Land of the Nile, is no more. Sand Dwellers and vile Kushites have taken it; they trample the figures and culture of my great people; they despoil the palaces of my pharaohs and the houses of my common folk. We are done.

But it was not always so: many, many ages ago, we were a proud and upright people. Our first King, Menes, tamed the mighty Nile, and taught us how to draw prosperity from its waters. Our pharaohs were descended from the gods, the Sun God in particular, and their flaming red hair served as a perpetual link to us to remind us of our blessings through Ra.

Amongst us common folk, the bright red hair was not common: and when it did come forth through a joyous union, the child was elevated to the court, as it must have come from the gods as well. Yet also living amongst us were a small number of Sand Dwellers, brown people with large noses; and also Kushites, people the color of the night with broad noses, from the deepest reaches of the Upper Nile. We at first thought nothing of these people –and I was amongst those who felt this way. Only later was I, with the advantage of age and vision, able to determine what they meant for us.

For we were a mighty folk: and when one is mighty, one forgets many basic important things. The most important rule which we forgot, and for which we were to be punished dearly, was that no-one is so mighty as to ignore the fate of nations who do not hold their own land.

During this early time, we started our first great building: the pharaoh's home at Memphis, the largest and most important city of our first Great Age. By this time we had developed the script which you now read; another gift from the gods, and one which neither the Sand Dwellers nor the Kushites were able to master: even now they corrupt and denigrate it, as I write these very words in the old language. Then we built the great Pyramids and what I have heard others call the Sphinx: our great pharaoh Cheops wished to make it clear to all the surrounding nations and peoples – and the Kushites and Sand Dwellers in particular, how mighty we were. His tomb would reach the heavens itself, and it took many ages of the pharaoh's own life to build.

And this, dear readers, is where, now that I look back as an old man, wrinkled by the years, and bitter with resentment, that I see where we made our error.

For we used the Kushites as workmen; along with our own fine craftsmen. Our skilled people cut and shaped the stone, blocks so mighty I am sure, even now, in ages to come other men will wonder at our glorious work.

Yet, we did not move the stones ourselves: for this, we used the Kushites, and other slaves who fell into the pharaoh's hands. They dragged the stones 500 miles and more, and many died; yet still, many more lived.

And, if the truth be told, we also used them to build Memphis, and our other great cities: always pressing them into service, never seeing the enemy we were letting into our city walls. For as long as their numbers are small, they seem no issue: yet this is not how the gods had ordained things to be.

Yet still we saw not the danger: the glorious inventions and brains and wonder of our civilization blinded us to the reality. For had we not invented the calendar, the solar year, which we had divided into 365 days and which, I am told is now used by most other peoples as well?

And did our priests not start with the great advances in treating the sick, moving beyond the simple herbs and chants of the past? Did we not start healing sore teeth, opening man's skull to relive pressures, and many other things, things which have now been lost . . . because we did not keep the people who made these things.

Lessons from the Past: How Race Defeated Egypt

And so it was that after many ages, our resolve become weakened, and drunk with the material possessions and wealth we had created, the struggle to survive now a distant memory, our people became weak. Corruption, insincere rulers and conspirators amongst us caused our great civilization to stumble. Only when a great pharaoh came to the throne of upper and Lower Egypt again was our nation saved, and so did begin our Second Great Age.

Then the first great calamity struck: a new tribe of Sand Dwellers, with great black beards, who we called the Hyksos, struck us down from the Sand Dweller desert of the East. They overwhelmed our forces, using their armored carts which they called chariots, and their new animals, which they called horses. We had neither, and although our men stood bravely and fought to the bitter end, they were overwhelmed: we had no answer for these powerful weapons, and our pharaoh had to flee like a Kushite to Upper Egypt, and there hide in the desert like the Sand Dwellers we despised.

Where the Sand Dwellers got the chariots and horses we never knew: only of one thing we were sure: they must have taken them from other peoples, for they themselves never had such a thing before.

Many Kushite kings had taken advantage of our defeat, and had allied themselves to the Hyksos. We had to fight wars on two fronts, maintain ourselves, and feed our people: it was a time of great suffering. It took us more than 200 years of our calendar to drive the Sand Dwellers out of our glorious land again. But many of their people stayed, and mixed with our people, and our long sojourn in the south had meant that many Kushites were also now part of our households, in ever grater numbers than before.

So began our Third – and last – Great Age. We had by now mastered the horse and the chariot, and trained our own armies with this weapon. With the new power, we expanded the pharaoh's empire: all of the Sand Dweller lands to the east, and further to the land of cousins of the fair eyed and light bearded Sea People, who later attacked us, fell under our power.

In the South, the pharaohs waged war against the long festering sore that was Kush: all of those lands were conquered and made to pay subservience in gold and animals to the greatness of our throne.

Yet still, the Sand Dwellers and Kushites continued to grow in our midst: they worked for the pharaoh as slaves and as freemen, drawing upon the skills which we would pass on to them, the skills of stone masonry, boat making, writing and reading, medicine, philosophy, crop sowing and religion, all of which they had none before they came to serve us.

At this time we used them to build Thebes, a stone edifice so vast and solid that it will, I am sure, even outlast the great pyramids. Yet although it was our idea, our minds which thought of Thebes, it was their hands that moved the stone. This was the truth we forgot.

I noticed at this time the mingling of the blood which had taken hold: people such as myself, with eyes of the sea, had become fewer and fewer. The dark skin of the Sand Dweller and the Kushite had become more common: even in families we thought had not mingled their blood, but must have in years gone by, we saw this happening.

Now we were also set upon by the Sea Peoples. Coming by boats from the north, over the great sea into which the Nile emptied itself, the light haired and light eyed people came, attacking our weakening positions, our darkening people, and laying waste to many of our towns and ports. I wondered about their fair countenance: were they not long distant family? Thank Ra their incursions slowed down: we might well have fallen to them. Although now, with the benefit of hindsight, I perceive that might have been a better fate than that which we now face.

For even though our victories against the Kushites had been glorious, and our pharaoh Sesostris III had made the land of the Kush a colony, those people filled up our towns and cities with even greater number. To be fair, that pharaoh saw the danger, and erected the Semneh stela which forbade Kushites from entering Egypt: yet still he allowed traders and workers into our lands.

By now I had seen the problem: and just as I despaired, the great red headed pharaoh Rameses, who later was called Rameses II, came to the throne, and, driven like a man possessed –and indeed he was – he reestablished the throne to at least a semblance of its former glory.

He conquered new lands, new peoples, and forged alliances with new nations: but still I could see, like a sage of old, that our time was drawing to an end. True Egyptians were few and far between: new alien looking people filled our court hallways and town streets, customs and ideas strange to us old folk, who had kept the line pure, began to dominate.

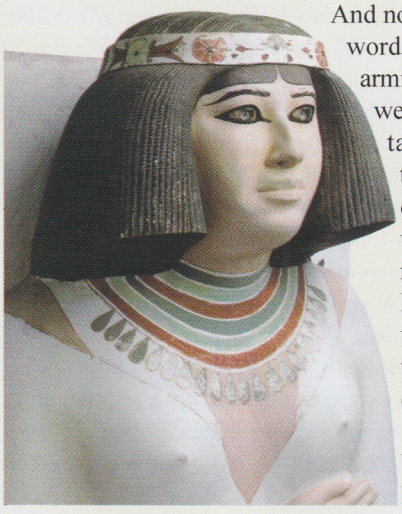
And so it was that these alien, mixed people, made their way to the top of our kingdom: I was cursed to see the red hair of our gods vanish for ever from our throne; and instead saw the smirking face of the half-Sand Dweller, and even of the half-Kushite, glare at me from the crumbling throne upon which they sat, defiling the memory of the great men who had sat there ages before them.



And now, as I write these last words, the Kushite armies, armies with weapons which we had given them, with tactics we had taught them; surround the last of the palaces. They are upon us: there are no more Egyptians, true Egyptians, to defend us, just the old folk and the few women and children left.

In a short while it will be over: we will be history; and our great civilization will have fallen for ever.

I have no other ability left except to write these words, and hope that one day, another people, perhaps cousins of mine, will read them, and learn the great lesson we have learned: do not think you are so great that you cannot do your own work; no labor is so menial that you cannot do it yourself.

If you maintain your people in your own land, and not let the alien races infiltrate your nation, you will survive; if you do not, you will die like we have.

And now the last door is being splintered open. I must hurry, but what else is there to write? Learn well, my friends of the future. Do not follow our path.

How Accurate is the "Tutankhamen Reconstruction" ?

Recently the world was shown a 'reconstruction' of the face of the boy king, Tutankhamen, along with the claim that he was a "North African Caucasoid" who "looked Egyptian." How accurate is this reconstruction?

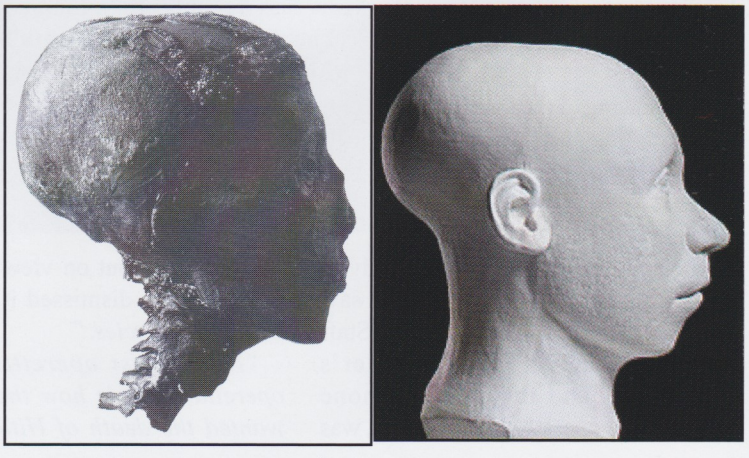
The answer is, not very.

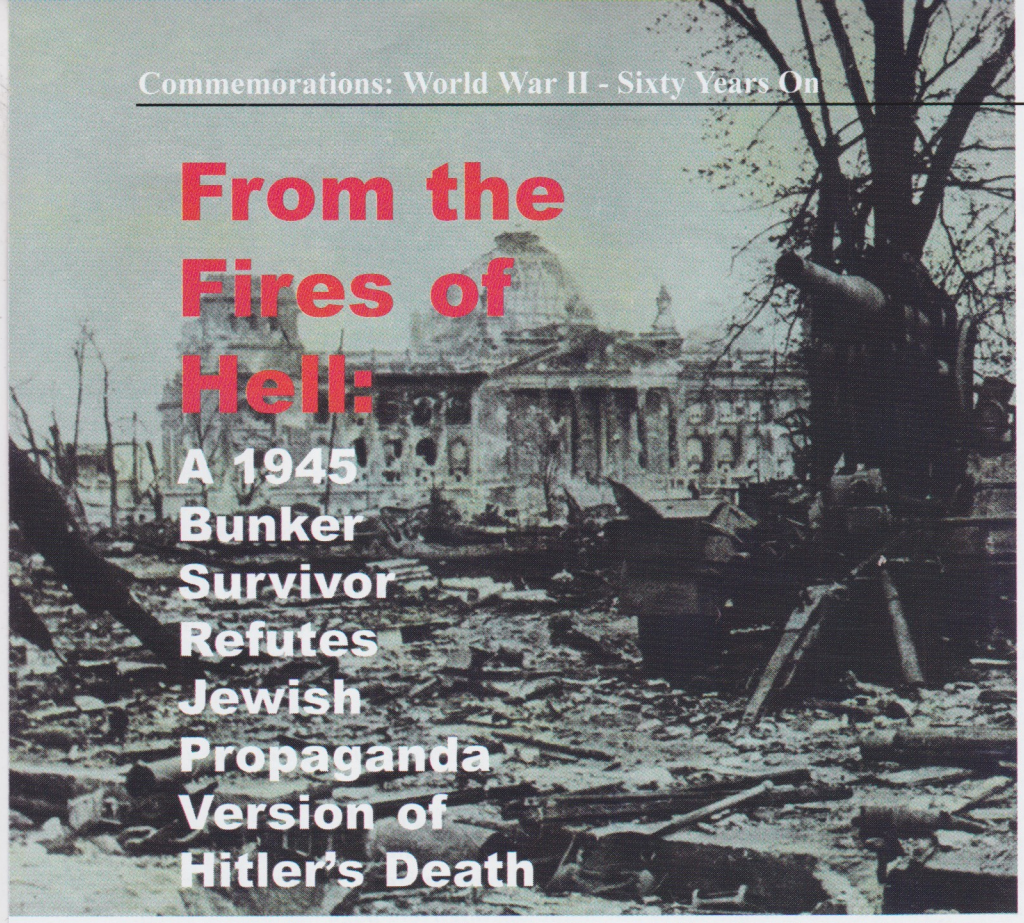
Firstly, the color of the reconstructed face's skin was not allocated by any sort of scientific standard, merely what a sculptor had presumed it to be.

Secondly, the forensic teams (there were three different ones, each working on a different model) all had differing nose and ear shapes, and the final result was chosen by the head of Egypt's' antiquities, Zahi Hawass, because "he was the most Egyptian looking" - meaning the color he wanted was meant to be of Egyptians today. Hawass is of course the same one who earlier forbid genetic testing of any of the mummies in any of Egypt's museums.

Thirdly, the shape of the skull has been seriously distorted by the "reconstruction" obviously to give it as much of a non-White appearance as possible. Alongside, the reader can compare Tutankhamen's actual skull to a side view of the reconstructed head. The obvious distortions are clear to even the most untrained eye. This is part of a deliberate campaign to support Afrocentric attempts to claim Ancient Egypt as a "black civilization"; readers will recall that the "Queen Nefertiti" reconstruction made by the Discovery Channel also portrayed her with dark skin, even though all the records showed she had fair skin.

From these pictures it is clear that the Tutankhamen 'reconstruction' is not accurate at all, and that there is a deliberate political motivation behind the "browning" of Egypt's history.





From the Fires of Hell:

A 1945 Bunker Survivor Refutes Jewish Propaganda Version of Hitler's Death

Sixty years after the end of the Second World War, the left wing fascination with Hitler lives on. Not content with rehashing every single final conflict (50 years, 55 years, 60 years . .) which saw the end of Hitler and his Third Reich, Hollywood and its extended Jewish family continue to produce the most appalling propaganda movies about that period, as if it were still fighting the very war itself.

The latest offering to hit the movie screens is titled "Downfall" and is supposed to be a historically accurate version of the last days of Adolf Hitler in his bunker in Berlin. The Toronto Film Festival critics raved about the film as the "most historically accurate . . . (and) best war movie ever made." It even drew some disapproving mutters from the Jewish press because the film allegedly portrayed "Hitler with a human face."

Yet a viewing of the movie shows Hitler ranting and screaming, and "SS Death Squads" executing the parents of brave Hitler Youth soldiers . . .

So what does the last living survivor, the last person alive who actually saw Hitler dead, say about the film? SS Staff Sergeant Rochus Misch, Hitler's bodyguard, and the last telephone switchboard operator in the bunker, was initially asked to co-operate with Jewish director of the movie, Oliver Hirschbiegel, but on viewing the final result, Misch dismissed it as "riddled with inaccuracies."

Rochus Misch, the last person alive to see Hitler dead, was initially asked to co-operate with Jewish director Oliver Hirschbiegel, on the movie 'Downfall" but on viewing the final result, Misch dismissed it as "riddled with inaccuracies."

"It was just operetta, dramatic operetta. That is how the Americans wanted the death of Hitler to look. All that yelling and screaming; it wasn't like that down there in the bunker," Misch said. "The reality — it was a death bunker. Everyone whispered down there. A crazy screaming scene never happened. . . . (W)hen the generals were down there, discussing military things, they were very quiet. It's a film, with all the freedoms of a film. It's no documentary."

"It was just operetta, dramatic operetta. That is how the Americans wanted the death of Hitler to look," Misch told the Associated Press in an interview early in May this year.

The ranting and raving part is also a lie. In an interview with Salon Magazine in February this year, Misch dismissed it:

"All that yelling and screaming; it wasn't like that down there in the bunker," Misch said. "The reality — it was a death bunker. Everyone whispered down there. A crazy screaming scene never happened. . . . (W)hen the generals were down there, discussing military things, they were very quiet. It's a film, with all the freedoms of a film. It's no documentary."

Despite his age, and the fact that he lives in modern Germany, a society which punishes people for the slightest thought crimes, Misch is still barley able to hide his loyalty for Hitler in press interviews.

A member of the SS Leibstandarte Adolf Hitler since 1937, which was originally Hitler's personal bodyguard, Misch was attached to a regular army unit for the invasion of Poland. He was wounded in the chest, and sent back to Germany to recover.

"That was a lucky break for me because it was through my injury that I came to work for Hitler," he told a British newspaper in 2000. He was summoned to the Reichs Chancellery. "The head adjutant interviewed me. He had to know who would be living in Hitler's apartment. Then he stood up and went to the door. And who was standing behind the door? Hitler. I got in a state, freezing cold one moment, hot the next. We were one meter apart. He had been listening to the interview behind the door," Misch said.

"Hitler asked where I came from and I said, 'Mein Führer, I come,' — in the meantime I had composed myself a little — 'I come from Upper Silesia' He asked, 'Do we have any Silesians here?' and the head adjutant said, 'I don't know, I don't know.' Hitler went on, 'Well, the young man can do something for me straight away.' And he gave me a letter and said,

'Please take this to my sister Paula in Vienna.'"

This became Misch's first job with the Führer-Begleitung (Hitler's personal staff). He freely admitted this left him awestruck. "Hitler was acclaimed, celebrated everywhere. This was the Führer. I was scared. But after ten days or so I got used to the fact that Hitler was a human being, like any other. Then he was no longer the great Führer, but simply 'the boss'."

"He was a very good boss, very loyal. We who were closest to him tried to carry out our duties properly. We were bodyguards, telephonists, whatever; we did everything that would have to be done for the head of any firm, whoever he may be.

"There is nothing to complain about when you have such a boss. He always asked how we all were. Those who claim Hitler wasn't interested in ordinary people are talking nonsense."

Misch accompanied Hitler almost everywhere, and followed him into the bunker in the centre of the capital about four days after the final Soviet onslaught on Berlin began on April 16, 1945.

The Communist assault saw 2.5 million troops with 6,000 tanks against a pitiful Berlin defense force estimated to number between 90,000 and 150,000, many of them old men and children equipped with bicycles and single-shot anti-tank weapons. Ironically, some of the best combat troops defending Berlin were foreign SS volunteers, Frenchmen from the Charlemagne Division, the Nordland and other smaller units fought to death in the fight which was without doubt some of the most severe hand-to-hand battle of the entire war, certainly as vicious as Stalingrad.

By the time the battle for Berlin was over on 2 May, the Soviets had taken some 350,000 casualties, including at least 78,000 dead, but probably more. An idea of the intensity of the conflict can be gained if it is appreciated that this figure exceeded the total number of German defenders. German losses were never fully tallied due to the collapse, but it is known that over 100,000 German women were raped in the Communist orgy which followed the fall of Berlin.

Of Hitler's death itself, Misch remembers the details clearly: On April 30, 1945, with Soviet forces just 300 meters from the bunker and his armies beaten, Hitler bade farewell to his staff and went into his private rooms.

"I remember that he said goodbye in the corridor and went into the rooms. I don't know how long it took, maybe one hour, maybe two. I was standing in the hallway when Hitler took his own life. Because I wanted to go over to the Reichs Chancellery for lunch, and a colleague had already taken over for me in the telephone room. I was standing in the hallway, asking in the neighboring room if I should bring anything back with me. The other guy said, "No, no, I have everything already," and it was then Linge, Hitler's butler said 'I think it's done.' He had heard it."

Despite being at the heart of Hitler's entourage, Misch insists he never heard any talk of the mass murder of Jews.

"How could we fail to find this out — my God, we knew nearly everything that was going on — us in the inner circle — we were always there, day and night. We saw Hitler in his nightshirt! We received the dispatches and brought them to Hitler to read. He would have them under his arm and tear out a report and hand it to me and I would get rid of it in a waste-paper basket. There was never anything on this subject. With Hitler, that was never a topic. Never," he said.

"I can't imagine Hitler as a murderer. It's simply impossible."

"But of course we were always making mistakes. Our ears played tricks. Down there in the bunker, any loud noise echoing through the concrete sounded like a gunshot. There was so much suspense. We had been waiting, expecting it any minute, for hours. And yet we weren't sure. Because of course, there was always the possibility of a miracle. The miracle would have been England. If England had said, it's not Hitler that's our biggest enemy, rather Bolshevism, they could have rolled right by Berlin all the way to Moscow. Churchill himself said later, "We slaughtered the wrong pig."

"There was perfect silence. We waited. We waited maybe 20 minutes. But Linge was curious. I was curious. I still don't remember whether it was Linge or Günsche who first opened the door to Hitler's rooms, but one of the two. I was really curious and came forward a few steps. Then somebody opened the second door — I still don't know who it was, probably Linge. And it was then, as the second door opened, I saw Hitler, dead, lying on a chair. Eva [Braun] on the couch completely clothed. In a dark dress and white, white skin. She was lying back.

So then I said to them, "I'm going to run over and report to the commanding officer." And they said, annoyed, "Well, come right back." So I told them, "Yeah, sure. I'm just saying: I'm a soldier. I have a command to carry out."

"Then I was on my way over to the Reichs Chancellery, already in the passageway, but I had an uncanny feeling, very scared and uncertain, so I turned around. When I got back they already had Hitler down on the floor. I watched them packing him up, in a blanket. Well, so it went. Then they carried him out, and I went away finally Defending the faith: Rochus Misch, today and when he served in the Leibstandarte Adolf Hitler as part of Hitler's inner circle. His important testimony of the last days in the Berlin bunker serve to refute the Jewish lies about that time.

The National Alliance is a group of White men and women who are united in the

WHAT WE B

The Law of Inequality

We recognize the inequalities which arise as natural consequences of the evolutionary process and which are essential to progress in every sphere of life.

Different races evolved under different circumstances, and Nature has endowed each race with different characteristics.

We believe that our race is highly developed at planning, self-discipline, has higher mental faculties – including the abilities to conceptualize, to solve problems and to plan for the future, as opposed to other races.

This does not imply that we look down or despise other races.

It merely means that we acknowledge and bow to Nature's decision in allocating different abilities to different races. As a result, we believe that races vary greatly in their capabilities to build and to sustain societies.

We also believe that individuals within a race differ as well: some are better able to understand the world around them than others; some are more creative; some have better self-discipline or a stronger will; some have a more highly developed sense of responsibility.

In a well-ordered society, these differences will be reflected in varying degrees of influence being exercised by the various members of the society, according to their varying individual qualities.

A Natural Order

We see ourselves as part of nature, subject to Nature's law. Within the scope of these laws, we are able to determine our own destiny.

If we err in our efforts, there is no one to protect us from the consequences of our folly or our weakness.

We are responsible for everything over which we have the power of choice: in particular, for the state of our environment and for the destiny of our race.

A Hierarchy of Responsibilities

We are obligated by Nature to participate as effectively as we can in its eternal quest for higher levels of development, higher forms of life.

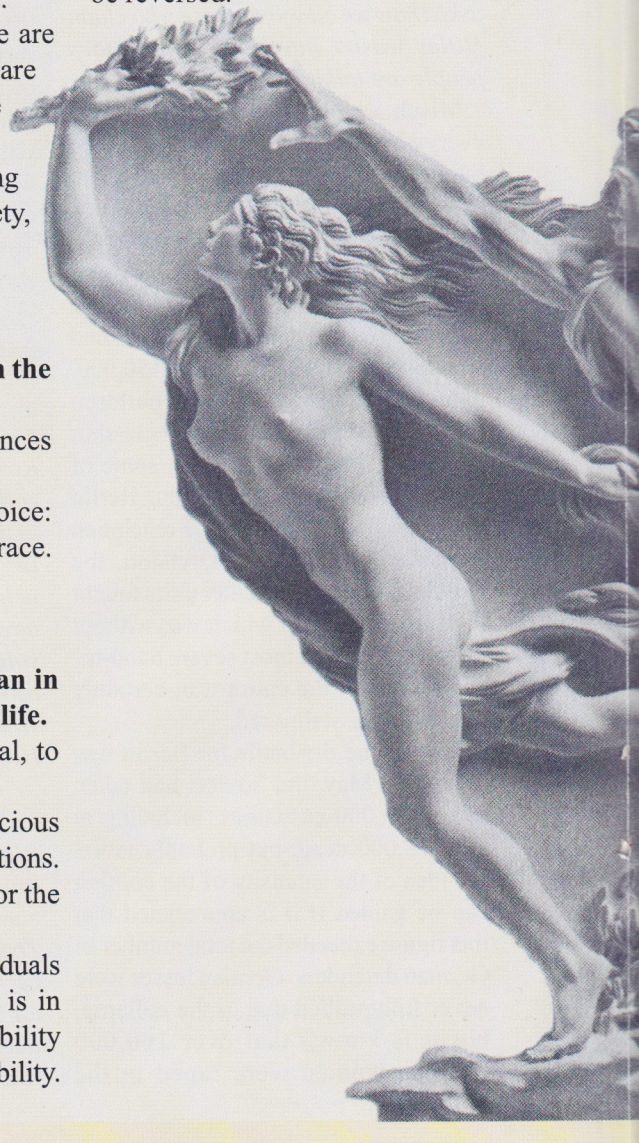
We have a special obligation to our own race: to ensure its survival, to safeguard its unique characteristics and to improve its quality.

We have an obligation to those members of our race who are most conscious of their own obligations and who are most active in meeting these obligations. There is a bond of comradeship between each of us who are working for the same cause.

We have a responsibility to ourselves to be the best and strongest individuals that we can be. Our acceptance of this hierarchy of responsibilities is in contrast to the attitude of the individualists, who recognize no responsibility except to themselves; and to humanists who eschew their racial responsibility.

A White Living Space

We must have our own living and breeding area. The sickness of "multiculturalism" must be swept away, we must again have a racially clean area of the earth for further development of our people. We must have White schools, White residential neighborhoods and recreational areas, White workplaces, White farms and countryside. The long-term demographic trend toward a darker world, which the disastrous policies of the last century have caused, must not only be halted; it must be reversed.



IONAL ALLIANCE?

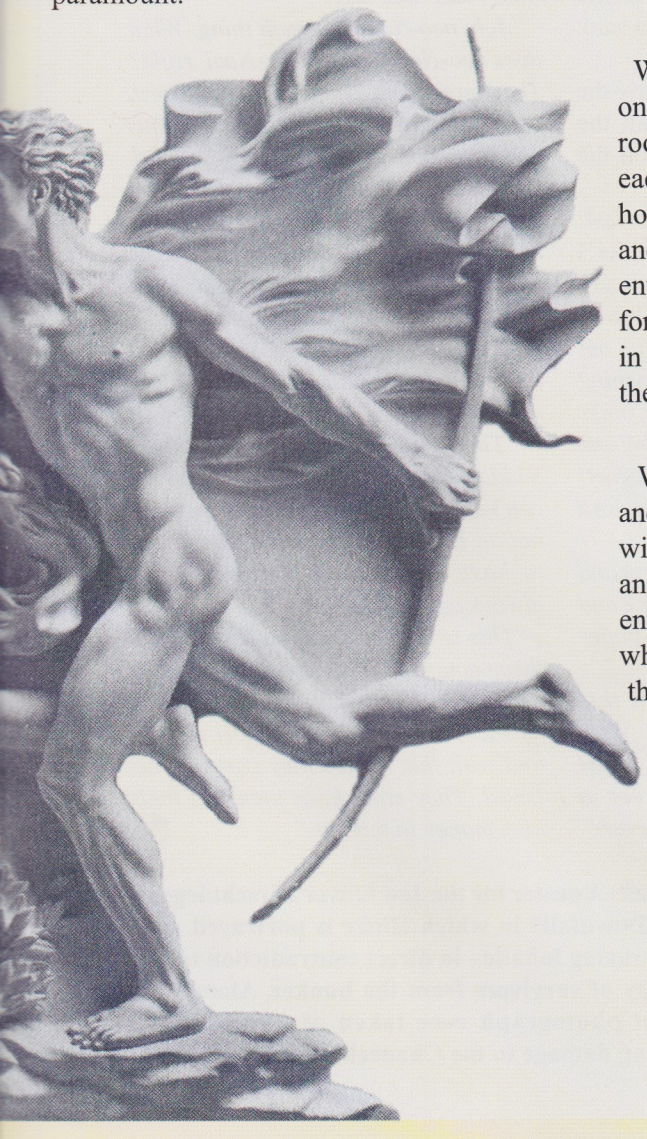
ideals of preserving a future for the White Race in America and around the world.

BELIEVE IN:

A New Educational System

We want an educational system which will properly serve to pass our people's cultural, intellectual, and spiritual heritage from generation to generation; to teach skills and techniques; and to guide the character development of individuals from childhood to adulthood.

It must pass on a consciousness of our European heritage to instill a patriotic race consciousness in all future generations, to ensure that the value and worth of race is held paramount.



An Economic Policy Based on Racial Principles

We need an economic system which, in contrast to Marxism, allows individuals to succeed in proportion to their capability and energy, but which, in contrast to lasseiz-faire capitalism, does not allow them to engage in socially or racially harmful activity, such as stifling competition or importing non-White labor. We need to maintain social flexibility, so that capable and energetic individuals always have the possibility of rising. We need to ensure that capital does not have the possibility of changing society's rules to suit itself. The way to achieve and maintain an economic system which meets these criteria is to design and govern the system subject to the supreme principle: the ultimate aim of all economic policy is racial progress.

A White Society

We must have new societies throughout the White world, which are based on White values and are compatible with our White nature. There will be room for Germanic societies, Celtic societies, Slavic societies, and so on, each with its own roots, traditions, and language. What we must have, however, is a thorough rooting out of Semitic and other non-Aryan values and customs. We must once again provide the sort of social and spiritual environment in which our own nature can express itself in organizational forms (i.e., in government, social structure, and social institutions), in music, in art and architecture, in literature, in philosophy and scholarship, and in the life-styles of our people.

A Responsible Government

We must have a government wholly committed to the service of our race and subject to no non-Aryan influence. The central task of a new government will be to reverse the racially devolutionary course of the last few millennia and keep it reversed: a long-term eugenics program involving at least the entire populations of Europe and America. We want an honest government whose every branch is staffed by people carefully selected and trained for their responsibilities, not by people who are merely liars with charisma.

"And I said, "No, I'm not going up. You go up!" But he said, "No, I'm not going up either, I'm getting out of here." So neither of us went to the cremation."

To Misch, Hitler was not just a distant leader. He was, Misch said, the kind of boss who joked with his staff; the film buff who loved Charlie Chaplin and watched Gone with the Wind three times. The man who always said that he was too busy for a wife and yet, Misch said, married Eva Braun the day before their deaths so that "he took her to the grave as a married woman solely out of consideration for her parents."

"Hitler, to me, was always a completely normal person. He spoke completely normally to me. I lived together with him for five years. I only knew him as a wonderfully good boss, right? I could talk with him. He was always satisfied with us," Misch said.

"He was never authoritarian. And we were with him day and night; we knew him. He was never without us, day and night. If he wanted something in the night, his servant was asleep, so he called one of us. If he wanted to be awoken an hour later, or to call Eva — anything. We just had a wonderful boss. We couldn't have wished for better. When I was married he had a case of champagne delivered to my house." He remembered delivering flowers to one of the Führer's favorite musicians who had just gotten engaged; the card said: "Best wishes, Adolf Hitler."

The media of course, cannot leave the holocaust alone, and almost all the interviews with Misch touch on the subject.

His answer is however steadfast: Despite being at the heart of Hitler's entourage, he insists he never heard any talk of the mass murder of Jews.

"How could we fail to find this out — my God, we knew nearly everything that was going on — us in the inner circle — we were always there, day and night. We saw Hitler in his nightshirt! We received the dispatches and brought them to Hitler to read.

He would have them under his arm and tear out a report and hand it to me and I would get rid of it in a waste-paper basket.

There was never anything on this subject. With Hitler, that was never a topic. Never."

"I can't imagine Hitler as a murderer. It's simply impossible. He was so friendly, nice. If I met him today, I'd say, 'Mein Führer, I didn't really get to know you that well. For five years we could look each other straight in the eye and smile and. .. all these things that have been written about, where did that all come from? I never knew you to be like that, Mein Führer.'"

Misch is obviously aware that comments such as these will brand him politically. Misch has also had an Internet presence, providing a "celebrity" endorsement for a mix CD of Bavarian music he helped put together, to benefit aging veterans of the Waffen-SS.

Perhaps at his age, he doesn't care. When pushed on the subject by Salon Magazine, he dismissed their cries of 'neo-Nazi' this way:

"Ach, neo-Nazi. No such thing. What does neo-Nazi mean? New Nazi, right? There aren't any. That's just a buzzword. What you have are nationally conscious people, people who say, "my fatherland, right or wrong." My fatherland, nothing more, am I right? You British say it, the Swiss say it, the Israelis say it — "My country," they say. And I'll fight for it. The Israelis are nationalistic people, they defend their region, they defend their people. They have as much right as anyone."

"The whole Iraq war isn't about Saddam Hussein, it's about Israel. Israel can't exist on avocados and oranges! A nation lives from business. They have to have money. And the Americans always pay in.

"This is just my opinion, but why did they occupy Iraq? Supposedly because of atomic bombs? [Laughs.] In my opinion, Iraq is a wealthy oil region, and with this money they can support Israel. They can't keep pumping their own money in forever."

US Government Fails to Warn Against Sexual Contact with Non-Whites as HIV Infection Rate Amongst Blacks Doubles

The US government is failing in its duty to warn White people of the dangers of interracial sexual contact – this after it was revealed that the HIV infection rate has doubled among heterosexual Blacks in the United States over the last decade while holding steady among Whites.

The shock figures, released at the 12th Annual Retrovirus Conference (the world's chief scientific gathering on the disease) held in Boston at the end of April 2005, showed that about one million people in the United States have contracted the AIDS virus since the outbreak began in the early 1980s. About 40,000 people test positive each year, and more than 18,000 die.

in medical circles for a long time, but has been suppressed by the political correct ruling elite for fear of being branded "racist' – although it is common knowledge that world wide, the "ground zero" of the HIV/AIDS pandemic is located in sub-Saharan Africa.

Nearly 75% of the world's HIV/AIDS population is African. From this it is obvious that HIV/AIDS amongst CDC announcing in 2003 that of the 405,926 persons in the US living with AIDS, an estimated 172,278 were Non-Hispanic Blacks. Blacks make up about 12 percent of the U.S. population, but 45 percent of new AIDS cases. AIDS has been the leading killer of blacks aged 25 to 44 for the last decade of the previous century. In the year 2000 it was estimated that one in 50 black men and one in 160 black women were infected.

This problem does not only affect Blacks: HIV and AIDS have also increased in the Hispanic population. Of the approximately 40,000 new HIV infections each year in the United States, some 19 percent are Hispanic. In 2002, HIV was the fourth leading cause of death for Hispanics aged 25 to 44.

The seriousness with which Black AIDS infection rates must be taken is illustrated by this random selection of official police sketches of serial rapists from around the U.S.: from left to right, Covington, GA; Miami, FL; Los Angeles, CA; Westborough, MA; New York, NY; Tampa, FL. There are around 20,000 Black-on-White rapes each year in the US, as opposed to less than 100 White-on-Black rapes

According to the Center for Diseases Control: 64% of women diagnosed with HIV in 1999 were of African American descent; 44% of men diagnosed with HIV in 1999 were of African American descent; More than 50% of the people who died of HIV in 1999 were African American; Of 13-24 year olds diagnosed with HIV, 63% are African American; and, most importantly, the fastest growing group of African American men with HIV are being infected as a result of heterosexual contact.

This has important ramifications on a racial level: what it means is that interracial heterosexual sex is now at least as, if not more, dangerous as multiple partner homosexual contacts.

This trend of ever increasing Black heterosexual Aids rates has been known Africans is primarily a heterosexual disease, linked to African promiscuity, rather that an exclusively homosexual disease.

This fact caused the Norwegian government in 1996 already to issue a warning to its citizens not to engage in sex with Africans.

In July 1996, the Board Director of the Norwegian Health Department, Anne Alvik, announced at an official press conference, that "Africans are potential HIV carriers" – and specifically directed their warning to the White population.

The Norwegians cited two cases of African men responsible for the infection of six Norwegian women and new studies which showed that a number of Norwegian women have sex with African men. In the U.S., no such warning has been issued: this despite the

According to the CDC, in 2003, of the 405,926 persons in the US living with AIDS, an estimated 80,623 were Hispanic.

The major factor in this increase is that many Hispanics are in the United States illegally and are afraid to come forward for testing out of fear of deportation. As a result, male and female Whites who have sexual contact with Hispanics also now run a dramatically increased risk of infection. A disturbing aspect to this situation is of course the high Black-on-White rape rate in the U.S.: FBI figures show that there are about 20,000 such Black-on-White rapes every year (compared to the fewer than 100 White-on-Black rapes each year).

The dangers of interracial sex are therefore clear and obvious: those who ignore them do so at their own peril.

Racial Education Achievement Gap 'Remaining Constant'

The educational achievement gap between Blacks and Whites in America has remained constant for at least the past 15 years, defying all efforts to close the gulf. This fact has once again been confirmed – possibly unwittingly – by a professor of Economics at the University of Chicago.

Professor Derek Neal, in a paper called "Why Has Black-White Skill Convergence Stopped?" to be published later this year in the Handbook of Economics of Education, says that the achievement gap between Negroes and American Whites, which narrowed for much of the 20th Century, "has stalled and is likely to persist for generations." According to Neal's research, the educational progress of Negroes over the past 15 years is an "ominous departure" from the pattern of sustained progress observed throughout most of the 20th Century.

Neal points out that the 1940 Census was the first source of national data on educational attainment. The Black-White education gap among young adults fell steadily from 1940 to 1990, but in that year, "black-white convergence in educational attainment stopped."

"Among men and women ages 26 to 30 in 2000, the black-white educational attainment gap is slightly larger than the corresponding gap in 1990," Neal said. Scores on standardized tests follow a similar pattern. "From the late 1970s through the late 1980s, black children made striking gains in achievement while scores for white children remained relatively flat," Neal said, but test score gaps among 9 and 13 year-olds stopped closing in the late 1980s.

Other measures of trends in educational achievement since 1990 tell the same story. Among 21- year old black men, high school graduation rates were lower in the late 1990s than they were in the mid-1980s. The opposite is true among young white men. Further, the ratio of white to black college graduation rates among young adult men rose between 1990 and 2000 after falling for decades.

In typical liberal fashion, Neal adds that this situation is likely to continue "unless something is done to improve the learning experiences of African-American children" – as if it is somehow White American's fault that Negroes do so poorly at school.

Neal and others might do well to consider the experience of the Kansas City project of 1985, which saw a federal judge order the school district to build and staff the best, most expensive public schools in the country. The idea was that they would be so excellent that they would not only lure White students but also, though massive funding, raise Black student achievement to the White level.

The schools were built - but Black achievement in them was just the same as before. Virtually no Whites came either. More than $1.4 billion was spent in the ten year period between 1985 and 1995 to fund this upgrade.

Yet nothing changed: the dropout rate actually climbed from 6.5 percent to 11.4 percent and the average daily senior high school attendance rate dropped from 81.5 percent to 76.2 percent. The racial gap in achievement levels remained unchanged, starting with a gap of several months in first grade and growing to two or three years by graduation. Test scores on standardized tests – essentially unchanged – are highest in the elementary grades.

The reality is of course, that racial ability is genetically determined, and nothing can change this state of affairs. In particular, cold, subjective academic research has shown over and over again that Blacks in America have an average IQ of 85, compared to the average 98 IQ of of Whites in America (see Lynn and Vanhanan, 2002).

Q: When is a Hate Crime Not a Hate Crime?

Rapist Who "Chose his Victims by Race" Set Free

A Black serial rapist who admitted he chose his victims because they were White has been released back into the Winchester, MA area, after completing his jail time, with no hint of being prosecuted for his blatant race hate behavior.

Calvin F. Tate, who terrorized three Boston women at knifepoint for hours in 1982 while forcing two victims' male partners to watch - was recently released from the Cedar Junction state prison after a jury of unknown racial origin declared that he was not a "sexually dangerous person."

Tate, who was described in the Boston Herald as "the worst sexual deviant in the entire Massachusetts prison system" was responsible for a four-month spree of violence in the South End in 1982, when he attacked two couples and raped a third woman in her home.

One victim was a Boston College student out on a date who was repeatedly raped as her companion watched in horror. Another Michigan woman was raped for hours as her beaten husband was stuffed in a closet listening to her screams. The third victim's torture was interrupted when she told the rapist her parents were coming.

Tate pleaded guilty to six counts of rape in 1982 and was sentenced to 15 to 20 years as a "sexually dangerous person." In the early 1990s, Tate filed an appeal, saying he was not a sexual predator, and this year a Suffolk County (43% non-White population) jury recently ruled in his favor.

A Department of Corrections prison report clearly indicated that Tate had chosen his victims based on race. "The purpose in the assaults is sexual gratification from white women and to

Detroit's 'hip-hop' Black mayor Kwame Kilpatrick, who is officially listed by the New Democrat Magazine as one of the "top 100" to watch, has, in corrupt Africa style been living it up at the city's expense, spending at least $210,000 on a Detroit city issued credit card - for entertainment for himself and his family.

Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick: spent $210,000 on travel and food on a Detroit city credit card.

Detroit, a once White city which has over the years become almost exclusively non-White, and has collapsed into utter decay as a result, currently faces a $230 million deficit.

Despite this, mayor Kilpatrick has used his city credit card to buy travel, meals, an $85 bottle of champagne, lobsters, crab legs, a $195 meal at Sean "P. Diddy" Combs' Atlanta restaurant, a $283 bill at Danny's Grand Sea Palace in New York, and a $456 bill at the Capital Grille in Washington –amongst other things. All in all, flights included, mayor Kilpatrick has spent nearly a quarter of a million dollars in this way.

The blatant abuse was exposed by a newspaper which obtained the records under a local state Freedom of Information Act. Kilpatrick is a first term mayor of the ruined city which now boasts only 911,000 residents, most of them little better than squatters, as Whites have fled the nightmarish burned out city in droves over the years.

Kilpatrick defended his lifestyle, saying, "When you're a young African American man with an earring, it's hard for people to believe you're a good husband and father." Indeed.

Detroit today: a fairly typical street scene. White flight and non-White violence have turned the city into a burned and broken ruin.

Hate Crimes Against Whites

humiliate his victims' male companions who represented authority and power," the report read.

There are no indications of any further action pending against Tate. Observers point out that this is in marked contrast to the pitifully few White-on-Black offences where there is a racial motive, which usually end with the White offender being accused of 'hate crimes" as well.

Police in Brooklyn Overruled in Black-on-White Assault case

The Police Department in Brooklyn, New York, refused to charge a gang of Black females with a hate crime even though evidence showed that they had shouted Black Power as they beat up a group of White girls in an unprovoked sports ground attack.

The incident took place on 30 March 2005 in Marine Park, as six 15-year-old Catholic schoolgirls were shooting hoops on Fillmore Avenue and Marine Parkway. Police sources said six to eight black girls from Marine Park JHS marched into the middle of the white girls' three-on-three basketball game and demanded the court.

Some adults intervened and the alleged assailants walked away only to return three or four times with a progressively larger gang, the victims said. Finally, a posse of 20 to 30 girls set upon the victims with kicks and punches, while shouting, "White crackers," "Black power," and, curiously, "Martin Luther King."

"I thought I was going to die," one girl told a local paper. "At first they just walked on our court. We didn't say anything. But they kept coming back. It looked like the crowd got bigger every time they came back." Although Police refused to indict the Blacks for a "bias crime", the city's Corporation Counsel Office, which prosecutes cases in Family Court, has raised the charges against the assailants.

Shock Figures: Non-Whites Make Up 68% of US Prison Population

An astonishing 68 percent of all U.S. prison and jail inmates are non-Whites, according to the latest figures released by the Bureau of Justice. In addition, the prison population grows at a rate of about 900 per week, and currently the US holds more than 2.1 million people prisoner.

Other statistics released by the Bureau of Justice showed that 28 percent of Black men will be sent to jail or prison in their lifetime and that an estimated 12 percent of all Black males in their twenties are prison, along with an estimated 3.7 percent of Hispanic males, compared to less than 1.6 percent of White males in that age group.

What the report termed the "correctional population" - all those in prison or jail as well as on probation and parole, reached a new record of almost 6.9 million as of the end of 2003. This figure, about 3.2 percent of the adult population, is nearly as large as the population of New York, the nation's largest city.

One in eight Black men in their twenties and thirties are behind bars, compared to 1 in 63 White men. For Black male high school dropouts, 41 percent of those between 22 and 30 years old were locked up as of 1999.

As the number of U.S prison inmates soar, the figures show Black men are 8 times more likely than any other race to be incarcerated. Of the 2.1 million inmates, just under a million are Black, with another near 20% being Hispanic or other non-White race, according to the Bureau of Justice Statistics.

* Prisons in England & Wales show similar patterns where 24 percent of prisoners are non-White; Black men make up 16 percent, Asians make up three percent and five percent are classified as "other." Of the female UK prison population, 31 percent are Black.

"The Noble Ally" : AIPAC / Israeli Spy Network Against USA Revealed

The May 4, 2005 arrest of Pentagon Iran desk officer Larry Franklin has once again revealed the extent of the Israeli spy network in the US. Although Franklin is not Jewish, he is charged with passing classified information based upon secret Pentagon documents to two American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC) officials in June 2003 and to Naor Gilon, a senior diplomat in the Israeli embassy in Washington. The AIPAC officials have been named as Steve Rosen and Keith Weissman, both recently fired by AIPAC in anticipation of Franklin's arrest.

With a potential ten year jail sentence hanging over his head, combined with no less than 83 classified documents confiscated at his home as evidence, Franklin is under pressure to reveal as much as he knows about the AIPAC/ Israeli espionage operation, including Pentagon officials who were part of the effort. These allegedly include, but are not limited to: Douglas Feith, William Luti, Harold Rhode, and Abram Shulsky. A visit by Franklin to Rome by Franklin, allegedly in the company of other Israeli agents also coincided with the appearance of the fake Niger government documents alleging Iraq was trying to buy uranium. Jewish spy rings in the US have long been the norm: even former Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Wolfowitz, has been probed for passing U.S. secrets to Israel since 1978. Allegations of espionage have also been leveled against – but not yet proven – Douglas Feith, Michael Ledeen, Stephen Bryen, and Richard Perle. Franklin worked directly for Feith.

VE Day in Berlin Sees Second Largest German Nationalist Rally Since WWII

VE Day celebrations in Berlin on 8 May 2005 were marked by the second largest German nationalist rally seen in that country since the end of the war – with estimates of the crowd varying between 5,000 and 8,000.

The rally, to protest the liberal politicians' apologies for the war and the opening of the holocaust memorial in Berlin on the site of Hitler's Chancellery building, was marked for the first time by the public appearance of a fair number of frail war veterans, some wearing the Iron Cross, who participated in the march.

Leftist demonstrators clashed with police as they illegally blocked the route of the legal nationalist march down the Unter den Linden from the Brandenburg Gate. One firebomb was thrown at the nationalists by the leftists, and police arrested 32 left-wingers for violence, along with 10 nationalists who were forced to defend themselves.

Udo Voigt, leader of the National Party of Germany (NPD), denounced chancellor Gerhard Schröder as a traitor. "I already consider him a collaborator, a Chancellor working for the Allies, but if he goes to Moscow on Monday and does not pay tribute at German war graves, then that is tantamount to treachery," Voigt said to the nationalist masses assembled on the Alexanderplatz.

Voigt also accused the political establishment of hiding the truth about German misery during and after the war. "How can we even think of celebrating this day when more than a million Germans died after May 8, 1945?" he asked, in reference to Germans who died in Soviet captivity and those expelled from German-held territories in Eastern Europe.

Voigt urged the demonstrators not to feel guilty about the country's history and asked for a moment of silence to express "deep sorrow for the millions of German victims, the victims of the Allied bombing terror. This was not a day of 'liberation' but a day of defeat for Germany and it's nothing to celebrate," he said. "Almost every German has relatives expelled from the east or a grandfather who was killed. We're here to mourn the millions of Germans killed in the war."

Second only to Dresden March

The Berlin march was acknowledged as second only to the earlier gathering in Dresden in February, which saw between 7,000 and 10,000 nationalists parade through that ancient German city in protest against the 60th anniversary of indiscriminate bombing raids by the British and US air forces in 1945.

The joint rally was attended by Voight, Gerhard Frey of the Deutsche Volksunion (DVU), Franz Schönhuber, former leader of the Republikaner party and Nick Griffin, leader of the British National Party.

The march marked a qualitative step forward for the NPD and was notable for the youth of its participants and the high level of discipline and self-confidence they displayed. Many of the marchers carried professionally designed banners, while others marched behind a forest of black flags.

The NPD's recent electoral success in Saxony means that it is bolstered by a monthly cash injection of 120,000 Euros ($155,000) from that state. This has contributed greatly to its increased professionalism and ability to get its message out.

Dutch White Nationalists "Gaining in influence" warns Dutch Interior Minister

Dutch Interior Minister Johan Remkes has warned that "right-wing extremists are gaining more influence in the Netherlands" in the wake of continuing racial clashes up and down the country between groups of White so-called "Lonsdale Youths" and non-White gangs.

The spike in racial violence began after the Dutch filmmaker, Theo van Gogh, was brutally murdered on an Amsterdam street (where his throat was cut and he was left to bleed to death, as in a Muslim animal slaughter ritual). The Leiden University's Anne Frank Foundation recorded 106 violent anti-Muslim incidents in the month after the November 2004 murder.

Since then, street clashes between Whites and non-Whites across the small country have been a regular feature, with White kids taking to wearing the "Lonsdale" brand of clothing as a sort of uniform to help identify themselves. The Utrect based Dutch intelligence service, RID, has warned that what it called the "radicalization of native Dutch youth potentially poses a threat more dangerous than Islamic terrorism."

The so-called Lonsdale youths have, according to police statistics, been involved in more than 25 percent of such street clashes, including two arson attacks on Muslim schools. There are, said the police, "very few regions in the Netherlands not affected."

Liberal police and the ubiquitous 'youth researchers' have asserted that the Lonsdale youths are becoming more of a danger "given the fact that society is experiencing a generic shift to the right, propelling the youths to action more quickly." A police chief in the town of Venlo went as far as to describe the Lonsdale Youths as a "powder keg."

The rush of publicity has caused the Dutch national security service, AIVD, to launch an official investigation into the Lonsdale phenomena. Initially the focus will be on a recent incident in the town of Venray, where there was a massive violent confrontation with Turkish immigrants, which started with the smashing of windows in a local Mosque. The secret service has launched its investigation there because three Whites were arrested in the fracas which took over the town center.

AUSTRIA

Haider Forms New Party; Looks for Comeback

Jorg Haider, the charismatic right wing populist Austrian politician, has broken with his former group to form a new party, the Alliance for Austria's Future. Opinion polls have given Haider's new party some 5 percent of the vote, as opposed to 3 percent to his former Freedom Party.

Haider, the son of an Austrian SS officer, won world renown with his praising of Hitler's employment policies and of Austrian Waffen SS veterans (who he called patriots while denying that they were criminals) played a significant role in elevating the Freedom Party to the point where it was drawn into the governing coalition in Germany more than two years ago after polling 27 percent of the poplar vote.

Haider however refused to be party to the coalition, fearing that the party would be dragged into the problems which the other coalition partner would cause. He laid down the leadership of the party and withdrew to become governor of Carinthia province, his long time stronghold (of which he was re-elected governor in elections last year.)

Haider was quickly proven correct: as the coalition blundered from one disaster to the next, support waned, and in the last general election, fought without Haider as party leader, the party's vote tumbled to 10 percent.

Most FP parliamentarians have joined the new Alliance, whose party policy documents do not mention race or immigration and only calls for the retention of "Austrian cultural identity."

* Haider has vowed to take the Austrian government to the Austrian constitutional court over its refusal to put the European constitution treaty to a referendum in that country. Haider's anti-European Union stance is a hallmark of his right wing populist platform of old.

GREAT BRITAIN

BNP Doubles its Vote in UK General Election

The British National Party doubled its vote in most areas where it stood in the recent British general election, losing out on a second place in a tightly fought London seat by only 27 votes.

Across the board, the BNP vote not only held steady but in most cases doubled, giving the party just under 200,000 votes in the 112 seats it contested (there are over 500 seats in the British parliament). This figure compares highly favorably with the 800,000 odd votes it received nationally in the European Elections of June 2004.

The BNP benefited from the mainstreaming of the immigration issue by the Jewish led Conservative Party, but the rise in BNP votes was equally strong in traditional Labour Party strongholds.

Party leader Nick Griffin polled 4,240 votes in his West Yorkshire constituency, just under 10% of the total votes cast. This was just behind Britain's third largest party, the Liberal Democrats, who polled 11.9% of the vote.

The BNP's best result was in Barking in east London, where Richard Barnbrook won 16.89% of the vote, being edged out by the Tories for second place by only 27 votes.

Griffin told Sky News after the results had been announced that "It is a perfectly respectable base for us to go on next year to look at winning extra council seats."

The British media, all universally hostile despite the BNP having made major populist policy concessions and even allowing a secular Jew to be elected as one of its London councilors, were grudgingly forced to admit that the party has "Score(d) a Significant Vote Share" as the headline from the Press Association's coverage affirmed.

BNP Chairman Nick Griffin

Most importantly for the BNP however is the fact that in almost all seats where they competed with the UK Independence Party and its splinter Veritas party, those two groups were soundly beaten by the BNP.

This will have the effect of formally establishing the BNP as the major populist right wing or pro-White party.

In addition to scoring well in parliamentary elections, the BNP also saw a dramatic rise in its vote in the Stoke-on-Trent mayoral elections, which saw the BNP vote jump from 8,212 votes obtained in the October 2002 election, to 15,776 votes in the election held on 5 May this year.

10% of UK Teenagers Support the BNP – Survey

Nearly ten percent of teenagers in the UK support the British National Party; and their attitudes towards Muslims in general have hardened considerably since 9-11 and the Iraq War, an April 2005 survey in that country has found.

With the voting age in the UK set at 18, it will still be a few years before this voting mass is seen on the electoral stage, but already liberals in that country are calling for "mass education" to prevent these attitudes from taking root.

The results of the survey were presented at the annual conference of the British Psychological Society at the University of Manchester. Researchers who questioned more than 1,500 non-Muslim adolescents aged 13 to 24 found more than 9% supported the British National Party.

Their attitudes towards Muslims had also hardened considerably since the Septmber 2001 terrorist attacks on New York and Washington, and the Iraq War.

* Some 23% of boys and 14% of girls said they had developed a "much worse" opinion of Muslims since September 11 2001.
* 18% of boys and 12% of girls said their views of Muslims had worsened since the invasion of Iraq. Some 12% of boys and 6% of girls said it had become "much worse" since the war.
* Some 23% of boys and 10% of girls said they would object if Muslim girls wore headscarves to school.

Researcher Nathalie Noret said the younger children aged 13 to 15 were the most likely to agree with the views of the BNP.

She thought negative depictions of Islam in the media, and the current climate of fear about Muslim terrorism, may be partly to blame for the trend. "I think the association that's been drawn in the media between being a Muslim and being a terrorist must have some impact on attitudes," she said.

* The BNP's populist approach to electoral politics in the UK has led to hardliners establishing a new group, called the Nationalist Alliance, in that country. The Nationalist Alliance also seeks to ultimately contest elections, although its primary focus is currently on recruiting and preparing for street activities in the style of the old National Front.
* The Jewish leader of the Conservative Party, Michael Howard (real name Hecht), whose family came to the UK from Romania, greeted his party's election result by pointing out that it had seen the election of their first Black and Asian members of parliament.

In total there will be 15 black and Asian MPs in the next British parliament, an increase of two.

RUSSIA

Russian Prosecutors say Call for Ban on Jewish Groups is Not Anti-Semitic

The state Prosecutor's Office in St. Petersburg, Russia, has declared that the recent mass petition calling on the Russian government to ban Jewish groups was not anti-Semitic and no charges will be laid against any of the signatories to the petition.

Over 5,000 known Russian public activists and members of the clergy had sent the petition to the government in March 2005, calling Judaism a fanatic and racist religion that hates gentiles.

The dramatic petition was based on quotes taken from the Kitzur Shulhan Aruch, a Code of Jewish Law as abbreviated by Hungarian Rabbi Shlomo Ganzfried in the late 19th Century. This book is the one of the most widely used Law codifications in Judaism. Among those who signed the letter are ex-generals, artists and the former Russian chess world champion.

The petition accuses Jews of working against the interests of the countries where they live and of monopolizing power worldwide. It says the United States 'has become an instrument for achieving the global aims of Judaism. It is possible to say that the entire democratic world today is under the monetary and political control of international Judaism, of which high-profile bankers are openly proud.' Along with outlawing Jewish organizations, the petition called for the prosecution of "individuals responsible for providing these groups with state and municipal property, privileges and state financing."

The petition came two months after about 20 members of the lower Russian parliament house, the State Duma, asked Prosecutor- General Vladimir Ustinov to investigate their claims that Jews are fomenting ethnic hatred and provoking anti-Semitism.

Arguing that Jews were to blame for anti-Semitism, the authors of the letter demanded that Jewish groups be outlawed, based on legislation against extremism and fomenting ethnic discord.

Russia's Holocaust Foundation head, Alla Gerber, said that while the Russian state itself is no longer anti-Semitic, there are 'anti-Semitic campaigns that are led by all sorts of organizations. The economic situation is ripe for this, an enemy is needed, and the enemy is well-known, traditional,' Gerber said.

This last comment is taken to mean a reference to the fact that 11 out of 12 Russian oligarchs who have seized Russian state assets in the wake of the collapse of Communism for their personal economic benefit, have been Jews, and many of them have been prosecuted for massive fraud. Many of these Jewish gangsters, often incorrectly called the "Russian Mafia", have fled to Israel to escape Russian justice.

CANADA

DROEGE'S DEATH WON'T SLOW DOWN WHITE NATIONALISTS, EX-CSIS MOLE SAYS

The death of Wolfgang Droege will "do little to slow the growth of a new generation of potentially violent white supremacists in Canada," a former Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) mole who infiltrated the White Nationalist movement in that country, has warned.

The comments came from Grant Bristow, who made a name for himself when he became Droege's deputy while working for the state, and tried to subvert Droege's organization, the Heritage Front.

"In the age of the Internet, smaller, independent extremist cells can get their ideological inspiration from abroad instead of rallying around a highly visible leader," said Bristow.

"Some of these more insidious organizations are able to articulate the message without that necessity for either face-to-face contact or that group camaraderie," Bristow, who remains in hiding, told The Canadian Press. "This makes it very difficult for the intelligence community to do their job."

Droege, the 55 year old co-founder of the Heritage Front, once one of Canada's most prominent and active White Nationalist organizations, was murdered by an acquaintance outside his apartment. There appears to be no political motivation to the murder.

FRANCE

FRENCH WHITES RALLY IN PARIS

Thousands attended the annual rally of the Front Nationale, France's largest pro-White political party, held on 1 May in the center of Paris. FN leader Jean Marie Le Pen, who was placed second in the French presidential elections, was accompanied on stage by the leader of the BNP, Nick Griffin.

SWITZERLAND

SWISS WHITE NATIONALISTS SCORE SHOCK VICTORY IN LOCAL ELECTION

The hard line 'Party of Nationally Orientated Swiss' (Partei der National Orientierter Schweizer, PNOS) has seen its second local government representative elected in only its fourth outing at the polls, reflecting a swing towards nationalist and right wing populist parties in that country.

Dominic Bannholzer, just 19 years old, was elected to the municipal council of the town of Guensberg with 20 percent of the vote. The PNOS is virulently opposed to non-White aliens in Switzerland and is not shy to mention the Jewish influence in society.

Local politics in Guensberg have focused on a recent influx of Africans who reportedly have set up a drug trafficking trade in the once peaceful Swiss town. The PNOS already has another representative in the Langenthal, a city in the Berne canton.

Mayday Rally

Bernhard Schaub, PNOS functionary and chief ideologist of that party, addressed a rally in the town of Aarau on 1st May 2005, in which he said that "immigrants of alien races" should leave Switzerland immediately. (Ten percent of the country's population of 7.4 million are foreigners. Fortunately, native Europeans make up the vast majority of the number, but there is a growing non-White presence, fueled by a growing asylum seeker problem which by government estimates stands at 3 percent of the total immigrant population.)

Schaub, who has also written on the falsness of the holocaust, told the rally that "international Jewish financiers are not far from ruling the world." Schaub has been charged with incitement because of the speech.

* Christoph Bloch's right wing populist Swiss People's Party (SVP), which the controlled media call "far right", won the biggest share of the vote in the last Swiss parliamentary elections, winning 55 of the 200 seats in the Swiss parliament, with 27% of the vote.

ISRAEL

Israel Uses Nazi Laws To Determine Jewishness of Immigrants

In what must rank as one of the most ironical paradoxes of the Jewish state, it has been revealed that Israel uses almost word-for-word Nazi laws in order to determine citizenship for that country.

The state of Israel has a law determining that all Jews from anywhere in the world automatic right of citizenship of Israel. This law was called the 'Law of Return.'

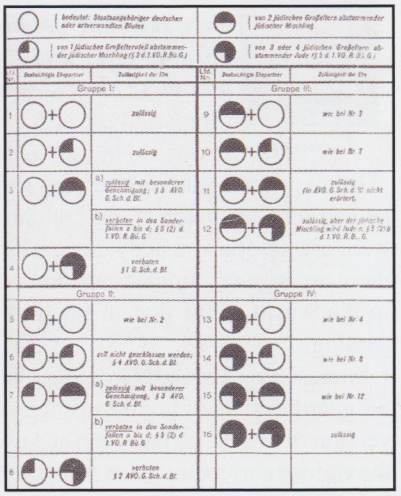
What is however not so well known is the fact that in order to determine Jewishness, the Israeli state had the effrontery to take the Nazi Nuremburg citizenship laws as their standard for defining who is a Jew and who is not.

This paradox was highlighted with the recent arrest of an Israeli Defense Force (IDF) soldier living in one of the illegal Jewish settlements on the West Bank. Vladimir Torinsky was first arrested on drugs charges, and when in police custody, he claimed he was a Nazi and that he hated Jews and Israel.

To prove his point, he showed police a swastika tattoo on his left arm. Horrified, the Israeli police rushed to his home where they found evidence on his computer of visits to 'Neo-Nazi' websites and of other contacts in a similar vein.

Torinsky's mother, incensed at the police intrusion, then joined in and told the Israeli police she was too was a Nazi, and that neither of them were Jews. In fact, she said, they were Christians who had come to Israel from Russia to take advantage of the generous settlement packages offered to immigrants by the Israeli government. Thoroughly baffled at how 'Nazis' could be living in a Jewish settlement on the West Bank, the Israeli police took both Torniskys away for questioning.

The truth behind this bizarre turn of events lies in the fact that Israel has taken in hundreds of thousands of Russian-speaking immigrants under the Law of Return. This law states that persons who have at least one Jewish grandparent qualify for citizenship - almost precisely the criteria that the Nazi Nuremburg Laws applied, as can be seen from the Nuremburg ancestry law chart alongside.



Israel uses these Nazi ancestry rules to determine the Jewishness of its immigrants

It now seems as if the Torinskys properly qualified for Israeli citizenship using these criteria, and as a result there seems to be little that Israel can legally do about its own home grown "neo-Nazis".

THE HOLOCAUST LIE FACTORY

A look at the fake holocaust industry

In the latest TV offering on the holocaust, TV show, "Auschwitz: the Nazis and the Final Solution", writer and producer Laurence Rees interviewed Oskar Gröning, allegedly a former SS guard at the Auschwitz camp.

The interview was conducted in German, and the English subtitles, supposedly an accurate translation of Gröning's words, read as follows:

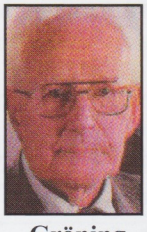
"I see it as my task, now at my age, to face up to these things that I experienced and to oppose the Holocaust deniers who claim that Auschwitz never happened. And that's why I am here today. Because I want to tell those deniers: I have seen the gas chambers, I have seen the crematoria, I have seen the burning pits - and I want you to believe me that these atrocities happened. I was there."

HOLOCAUST LIAR OF THE MONTH

Laurence Rees, BBC writer and producer, in his new TV series "Auschwitz: the Nazis and the Final Solution" as shown on PBS in the USA.

In fact, what Gröning actually says in German, which can be heard very clearly as he speaks, runs as follows:

"I see it as my task, now at my age, to face up to these things that I experienced and to oppose the Holocaust deniers who claim that Auschwitz never happened. And that's why I am here today. Because I want to tell those deniers: I have seen the crematoria, I have seen the burning pits - and I want you to believe me that these atrocities happened. I was there."



Gröning

Rees and the BBC have simply inserted the words about the "gas chamber"!

Gröning never said he had seen gas chambers, merely that he had seen crematoria, and body disposal. Of course, there were crematoria and body disposal methods at Auschwitz as there are in every single town and city of any size anywhere in the world – but that in itself is no evidence of "mass gassings."

* Interestingly enough Gröning's 'sudden" appearance as a SS guard is in itself highly suspicious. According to his own version of events, he had been at Auschwitz, working sorting the various currencies taken from the new arrivals and sending it to Berlin. In his office, Rees' TV show says, Gröning was "insulated from the brutality" – in other words he actually never saw any brutality.

In 1944, Gröning said he applied for a transfer to the front line was sent to an SS unit in the Ardennes. He was wounded in fighting, and he and his comrades "eventually gave themselves up to the British in June 1945," says the Rees TV show publicity. The question obviously arises: Germany surrendered on May 7 1945, yet Gröning and his colleagues only 'gave themselves up' in June 1945. The reader cannot be criticized for taking this with a pinch of salt. But Gröning's story gets stranger: he says that he realized that "involvement in the concentration camp of Auschwitz would have a negative response", so he told his captors that he had worked for the SS economic and administration office in Berlin.

He was, he said, shipped to England in 1946 where, as a forced laborer, he had "a very comfortable life". He went back to Germany in 1948, and became head of personnel at a glass factory. When his past was eventually uncovered (he never made any attempt to change his name or hide), the German prosecutors did not press charges against him, according to the Rees TV show publicity material.

So, not only is the English transcription of Gröning's 'confession' a blatant lie, but Gröning himself admits in his own words, he was a low level functionary who never saw anything anyway. Such is the level of deception to which the holocaust lie factory has stooped.

And this month's runner up is. . .

Michael Howard, Leader of the UK Tory Party

The Jewish leader of the British Tory Party, Michael Howard (real name Hecht) tried to pull a few heart strings recently by telling the media that he had a grandmother who died in Auschwitz in 1944.

However, a freelance reporter Michael Crick, working on a soon to be published biography of Howard, found out that all was not quite as was claimed. Crick found that Howard's grandfather, Maurice Hecht, had entered Britain illegally some time in the 1930s and that his son, Bernat Hecht (Michael's father) had lied about this when applying for British citizenship in 1947.

Bernat claimed that his father, Maurice had died in Romania in 1939, whereas in fact he was alive and well at the time in London, and in fact only died in 1952. In the same application, Bernat Hecht said that his mother, Leah Hecht, had died in Romania in 1943! This was the grandmother who Michael Howard claimed had died in Auschwitz, in Poland in 1944.

Aunt Rose Hides in a Chimney at Auschwitz

As if this was not enough, Howard took the story to even more ridiculous extremes in an interview in the UK's Daily Mail of 12 February 2005. In that interview, Howard revealed that he had not one, but two family members at Auschwitz - grandmother Hecht apparently had a daughter, Rose.

According to Howard's story, the two were living together in Northern Romania when the mother was rounded up by the Nazis and put on the train to Auschwitz. The daughter could have avoided the same fate, as friends had offered to hide her; but she did not want to be parted from her mother and so went along with her.

'My grandmother and aunt were separated, as soon as they got off the train, by the SS guards. They were divided into two groups," said Howard in the Daily Mail. "Those who were young, able-bodied and capable of work were sent one way. Those too old, too frail or too young to be of use... went the other way. At this point my aunt and grandmother were forcibly parted..."

Michael Howard, Jewish leader of the UK Tory Party. He said his grandmother died in Auschwitz, Poland, in 1944, but his father said she died in Romania in 1943.

"My aunt was taken to the gas chamber twice. On one occasion they ran out of gas and so she survived. On the other there was some malfunction.

"Then the third time they came to the barracks where she lived to take everyone in it to the chamber, but she was so thin – all she was given to eat were potato peelings – she managed to hide in the chimney. They didn't find her. She, alone among the group, miraculously survived."

So there you have it: the first time, the dastardly Nazis run out of gas; the second time the gas chamber broke down; and the third time, Howard's aunt was able to survive by hiding in a chimney!

Just how Aunt Rose actually survived hiding in a chimney, how she had managed to escape being killed after the Nazis had tried at least three times to get her - in Auschwitz itself - is not explained.

And the real strange thing is that Aunt Rose Hecht is alive and well and living in England today.

THE CRIME OF THE DECADE:
Americans Dying for Israel in Iraq

News, blandly started the truth which the Jewish owned American newspapers would never print, it not being 'suitable' for the Goyim:

"Of course this war against Iraq and Saddam Hussein is for us. Even Patrick J. Buchanan and Congressman Jim Moran know it. Stop and think for a moment: the last Gulf War in 1991 ended erev—just before - Purim. This Gulf War began motzei - just after - Shushan Purim. Get the picture? Read the Purim story in Megilat [Old Testament book of] Esther again? Haman, the proto-typical anti-Semite, plans mass murder of the Jews and in the end pays with his life, the life of his ten [innocent] sons - all hanged - and the Jews kill 75,800 members of the anti-Semitic - i.e. Nazi - party of the time." (Ariel Natan Pasko, Arutz Sheva Israel Broadcasting Network, "This War is for Us" March 26, 2003).

Another Israeli newspaper, Ha'aretz ("Jews") reported as follows:

"The war in Iraq was conceived by 25 neoconservative intellectuals, most of them Jewish, who are pushing President Bush to change the course of history." (Ari Shavit, "White Man's Burden," Ha'aretz, April 2003).

Syria or Iran Next

Israel has now turned its sights to Syria and Iran, its next two great enemies in the region. The Israeli Defense Minister, Shaul Mofaz told the Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv: "We have a long list of issues we are thinking of demanding of the Syrians, and it would be best done through the Americans." The BBC, in a article dated April 2003, quoted unnamed Syrian sources: "Syria itself sees the hand of Israel behind the American attitude and suspects that the US is now picking off the enemies of Israel one by one. Dr. Buthamiah Sha'ban of the Syrian Foreign Ministry said that US accusations against Syria emanated from Israel, which she described as the "main instigator" in harming US-Syrian relations.

The Wheels of Justice

So the next time a report comes through about another American soldier killed in Iraq, consider for a moment the real reason why Americans are fighting and dying in that country. The wheels of justice turn slowly, and one day, the true warmongers will be called to account for all the death and misery they have inflicted.

MOVIE REVIEW

Kingdom of Heaven:
Twisted History at Its Worst

Hollywood has no shortage of anti-White movie plots – and it seems that the British film industry is not short on them either. Their latest offering. "Kingdom of Heaven" from producer/director Ridley Scott is no exception.

Set supposedly during the period leading up to the Third Crusade (the years prior to 1189 AD), the blatantly false storyline sees a young French blacksmith, Balian, discover that his father is actually a Crusader knight. Balian sets off for Jerusalem, in search of glory. His long lost father, Godfrey, is one of the loyal knights of the Christian King of Jerusalem, Baldwin the Leper, who has a vision: a 'Kingdom of Heaven' on earth, a society where Christian, Muslim and Jew live side by side.

Balian of course is taken with this great idea, and it is then the film tells us of how the evil White Europeans are actually a bunch of corrupt, uncouth savages, while their Muslim neighbors are all educated, peace loving and cultured people. Mainly through the corrupt goings on and bloodthirstiness of the White trash, the poor Muslims are so aggrieved that the wars erupt again, and the Muslim leader Saladin lays siege to, and captures Jerusalem.

In the movie, Muslims are portrayed as bent on coexistence until the White Christian extremists ruin everything. "Sir Ridley," said the Times newspaper in London, "said he hoped to demonstrate that Christians, Muslims and Jews could live together in harmony—if only fanaticism were kept at bay." To achieve this patently false interpretation of history, the film's script invents a group called the "Brotherhood of Muslims, Jews and Christians." A publicist for the film explained: "They were working together. It was a strong bond until the Knights Templar caused friction between them."

This is of course nonsense, except, ironically, for one fact: the Jews and Muslims did work together - against the Christians. The last Muslim governor of Jerusalem before the city was captured by the Christians during the First Crusade, Iftikhar ad-Duala, had ejected all the Christian - White or non-White - residents of the city, only allowing the Jews of Jerusalem to stay. When the city fell to the Christian armies, the enraged Whites, who had suffered huge deprivations such as poisoned water wells and much worse in their march to and seizure of the city, killed huge numbers of Muslims and ejected the few survivors. All the Jews were burned to death in the main synagogue.

Professor Jonathan Riley-Smith, author of A Short History of the Crusades and one of the world's leading historians of the crusades, has dismissed the movie as "rubbish," saying that "it's not historically accurate at all" as it "depicts the Muslims as sophisticated and civilized, and the Crusaders are all brutes and barbarians. It has nothing to do with reality." There was also of course never a confraternity of Muslims, Jews and Christians.

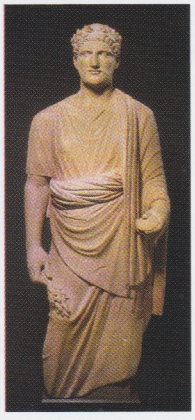
Saladin is, according to a film publicist, a "hero of the piece." Much is made of the fact that when he captured Jerusalem, he did not kill all the Christians. The movie ignores that truth that he planned to do so, and only backed down after the Christians threatened to destroy the city before he could take it. Once inside the city, he in fact enslaved many of the Christians who could not afford to buy their way out of town. Finally, in another fact ignored in the film, Saladin allowed the Jews to return and live peacefully in Jerusalem after the Christian Crusaders had previously prohibited them from living in the city. . .

All in all, an awful movie, which not even the few great battle scenes can save. A tedious, tiring, distortion, and one which would, in any normal society, be assigned to the trash heap of failures.

WHITE ART

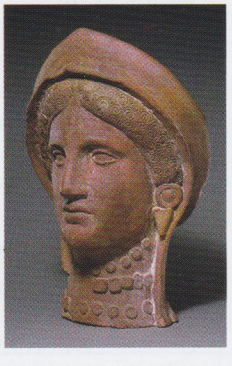
Metropolitan Museum of Art's New Cypriot Galleries: A Must See for All White Nationalists

The new Cypriot Galleries at The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York is a must see for any White nationalist who is interested in seeing some fine pieces of artwork from the ancient White world. It contains a selection of some six hundred of the finest works from the Museum's historic Cesnola Collection — comprising works from Cyprus in all major media that date from ca. 2500 B.C. to ca. A.D. 300.



This is the first time in more than fifty years that antiquities from Cyprus have been brought together in galleries devoted specifically to the Cesnola Collection. The new permanent installation emphasizes the particular strengths of the collection in the areas of sculpture, bronze, terracotta, and precious metals.

The breadth of the Cesnola Collection allows an unusually comprehensive display of the arts of Bronze Age Cyprus, which — despite its proximity to the mainland —appear to have developed in relative isolation during the Early and Middle Bronze Age. The exhibition includes handmade pottery and terracotta sculptures of humans and animals, as well as stone implements, copper-alloy tools and works in gold, ivory, silver, and glass.



For those of you who can't make it to New York soon, you can view some of the pieces online:

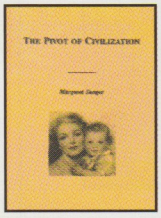
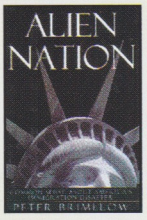
ESSENTIAL BOOKS ON RACE

As the West—and especially America—slips ever more quickly down the steep path to Third World-style mongrelization, all awakening White nationalists must educate themselves on the subject of race. Whether people are willing to talk openly about racial questions or not, these questions refuse to fade away, as egalitarians would like. And unfortunately for the latter, the hard data are in: the races of the world do differ in intellectual aptitudes, in spiritual nature, in ability to create high cultures, and in many other ways. The damage done to our civilization and to our race by pretending that all races are essentially the same beneath the skin is incalculable. We can only hope to put an end to this deadly foolishness by learning the facts of race. In the books we offer here you will find answers to the most troubling questions of our day.



THE PIVOT OF CIVILIZATION
Catalog Item: 1017
US $ 19.95
Margaret Sanger describes the centrality of the family while throwing a strong light on the need of society to curtail the breeding of the defectives, the weak or corrupt of body or mind. She also reveals that charity is cruel when it results, in the long run, in the creation of more incompetents who can only survive through more charity.
284 pages —— Soft Cover

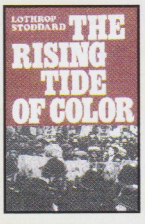


ALIEN NATION
Catalog Item: 675
US $ 13.95
Author has been denounced as "racist" and "anti-Semite" for daring to criticize the "browning" of America through Third World immigration. His data and reasoning are compelling. His anecdotal exposure of bigotry and mendacity of those who want non-White immigration to continue is devastating. An important weapon for White patriots. Common sense about America's immigration disaster.
327 pages Soft cover, low price.

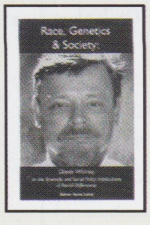
CONQUEST OF A CONTINENT
Catalog Item: 823
US $ 35.95
A reprint of Madison Grant's magnificent 1933 racial history of North America with the theme that the character of a country depends on the racial characteristics of it inhabitants. The author won fame with his book The Passing of a Great Race. Conquest of a Continent was well received in American academia when released.
389 pages —— Hard Cover

THE ARYAN RACE
Catalog Item: 914
US $ 21.95
A reprint of Charles Morris' 1882 book. It focuses on the concept of racial or biological destiny, seeing the caucasoids as a genetically superior race destined to lead mankind.
It builds upon the historic and prehistoric role of the Aryans as a militant, conquering people, fair skinned, who had pride in their lineage and who sought to preserve the purity of their descent.
347 pages —— Soft Cover

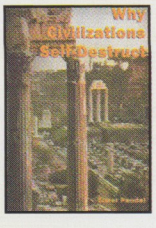
RACE, EVOLUTION & BEHAVIOR
Catalog Item: 961
US $ 5.95
J. Philippe Rushton
Race, Evolution, and Behavior: A Life History Perspective
(2nd Special Abridged Edition)
A pocket book sized edition of the more voluminous unabridged edition, containing all of the essential facts about race differences between Asians, Whites and Blacks. Covers brain size, IQ, personality, anatomy, sexual behavior, fertility and crime rates.
106 pages —— Soft Cover



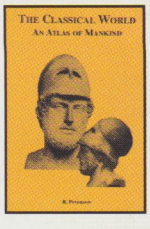
THE RISING TIDE OF COLOR
Catalog Item: 377
US $ 12.95
Stoddard
Reprint of the 1920 classic surveying the world racial situation after the First World War and warning of the coming non-White population explosion. "The world-wide struggle between the primary races of mankind...bids fair to be the fundamental problem of the 20th century, and...perhaps the future."
320pp —— Soft Cover



RACE, GENETICS AND SOCIETY
Catalog Item: 1071
US $ 22.00
Glayde Whitney
A brilliant university Professor in Florida broke ranks with the politically correct and wrote about the truth of genetic (racial) differences in the late 1990s. This scientific truth is deemed as blasphemy in today's Politically Correct climate. Read all the true details of racial differences from one of the best modern minds that has done scientific research on the subject.
280 pages —— Soft Cover



WHY CIVILIZATIONS SELF-DESTRUCT
Catalog Item: 359
US $ 19.95
Elmer Pendell
The basis thesis of Elmer Pendell is that civilizations fall because the less capable segment of the population outbreeds the more capable. Social institutions and ideologies that permit the unfit to survive and breed at the expense of the healthier segments in any society eventually bring about the destruction of the society. One of our perennial best-sellers.
176 pages —— Soft Cover



CLASSICAL WORLD: AN ATLAS OF MANKIND
Catalog Item: 479
US $ 16.95
Beautifully illustrated volume is a fine introduction to ethnology of Classical civilization. Photos of portrait sculptures of Greek and Roman figures give a vivid picture of racial characteristics of creators of the ancient civilizations of the Mediterranean. Accompanying text by a leading anthropologist serves as excellent guide to a fascinating subject.

T IS THE NATIONAL ALL

roup of White men and women who are united in the ideals of preserving a future for the White Race i

WHAT WE BELIEVE IN:

A White Living Space

We must have our own living and breeding area. The sickness of "multiculturalism" must be swept away, we must again have a racially clean area of the earth for further development of our people. We must have White schools, White residential neighborhoods and recreational areas, White workplaces, White farms and countryside. The long-term demographic trend toward a darker world, which the disastrous policies of the last century have caused, must not only be halted; it must be reversed.

A New Educational System

We want an educational system which will properly serve to pass our people's cultural, intellectual, and spiritual heritage from generation to generation; to teach skills and techniques; and to guide the character development of individuals from childhood to adulthood.

It must pass on a consciousness of our European heritage to instill a patriotic race consciousness in all future generations, to ensure that the value and worth of race is held paramount.
